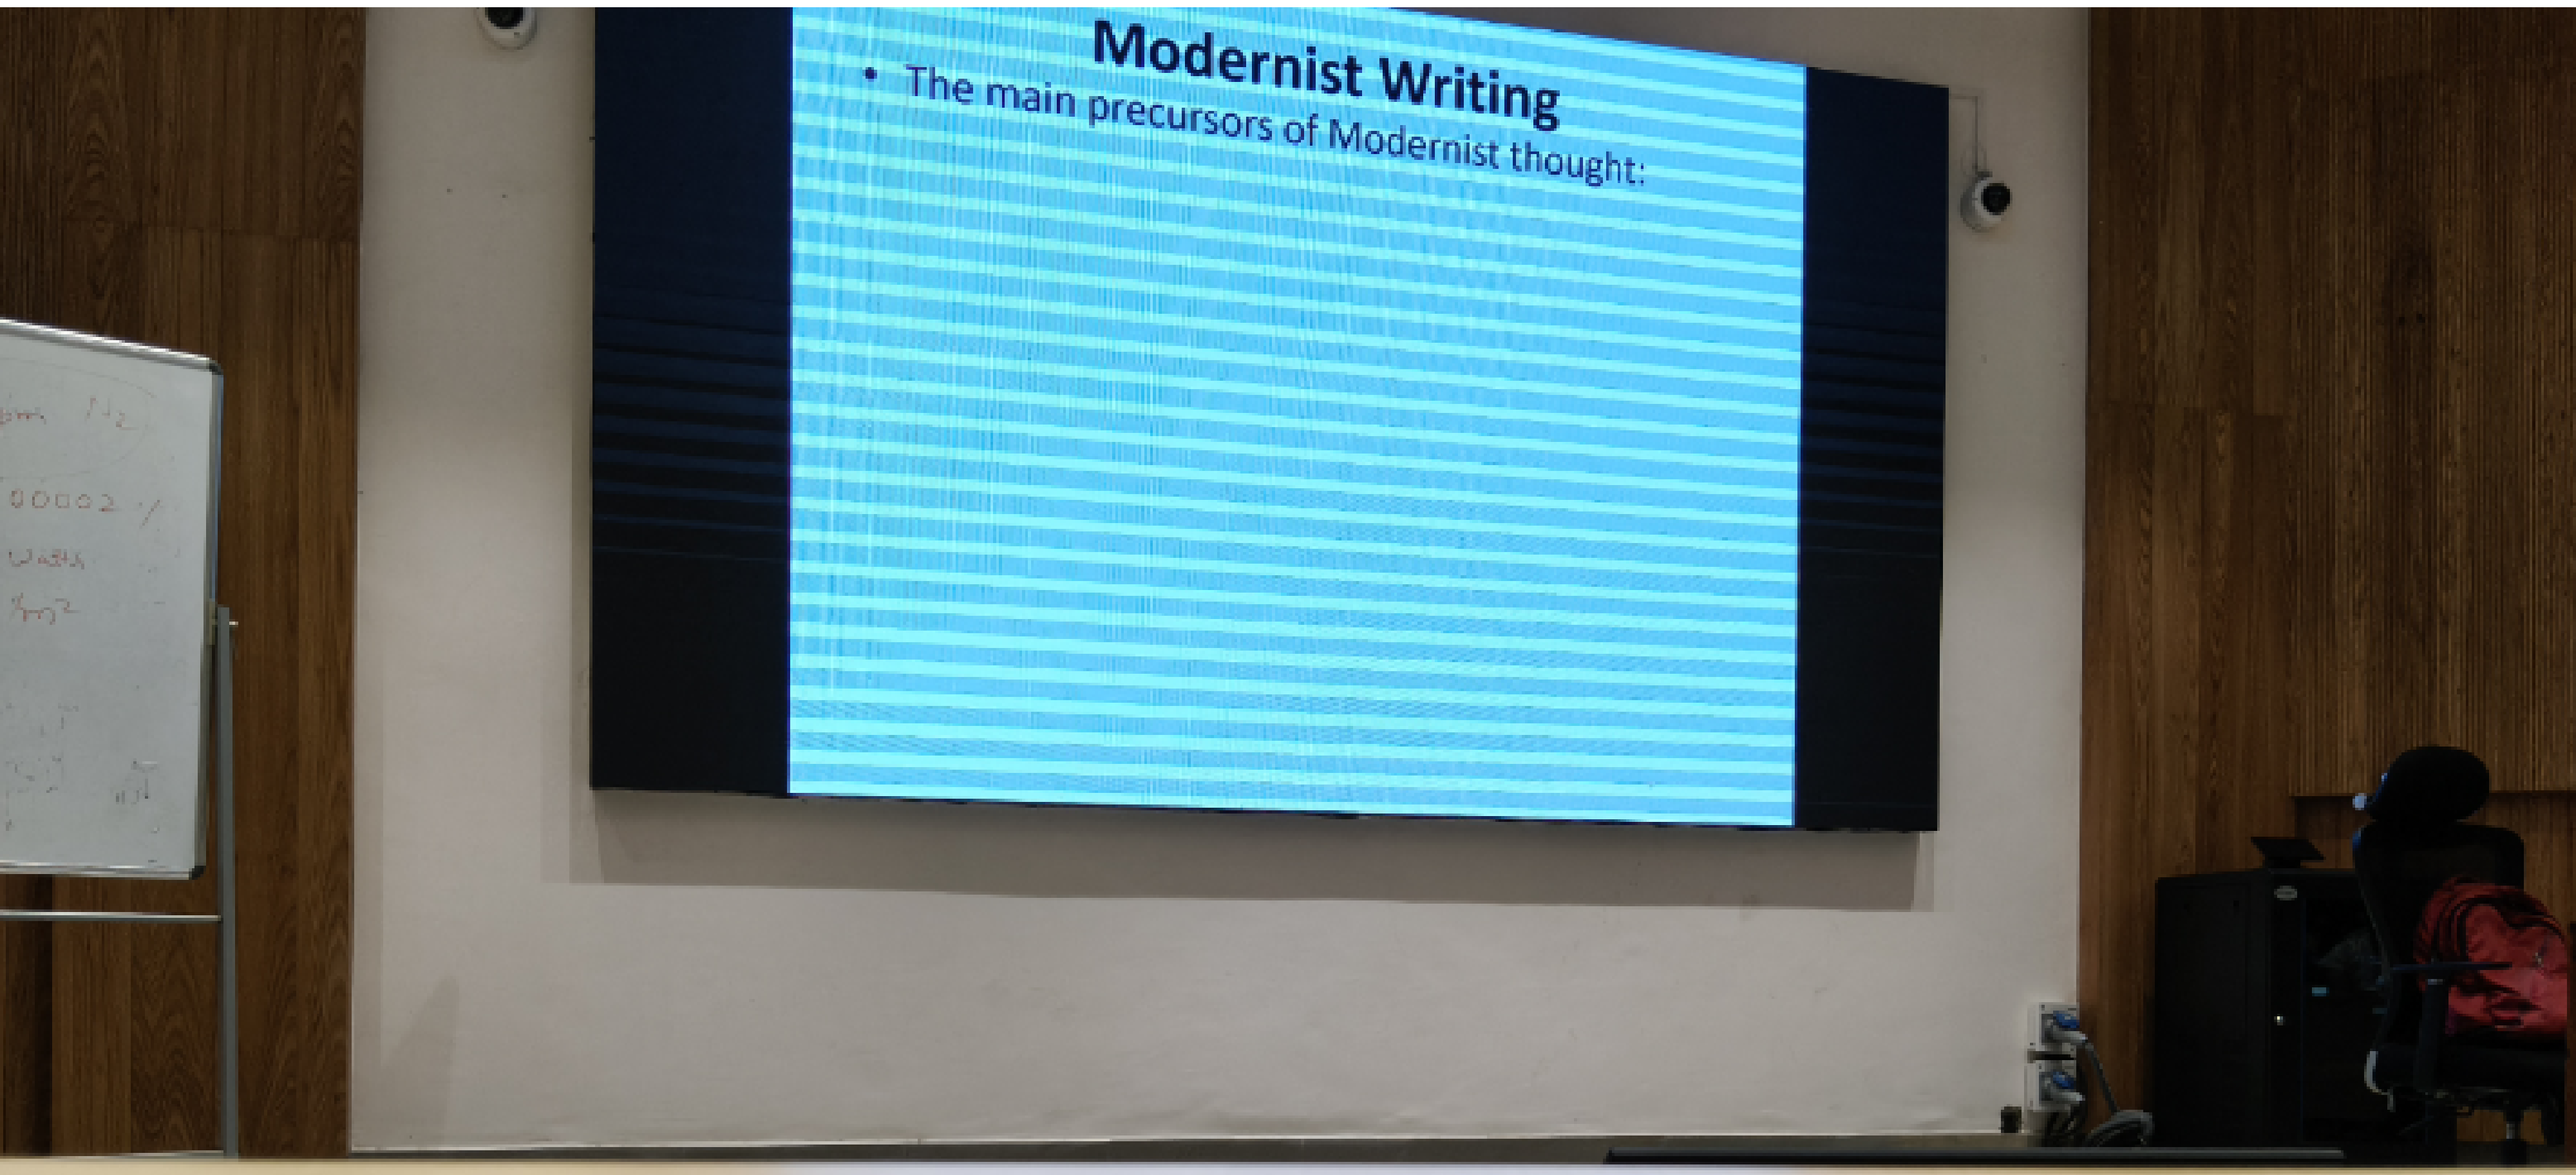
Katherine Mansfield
(1888-1923)

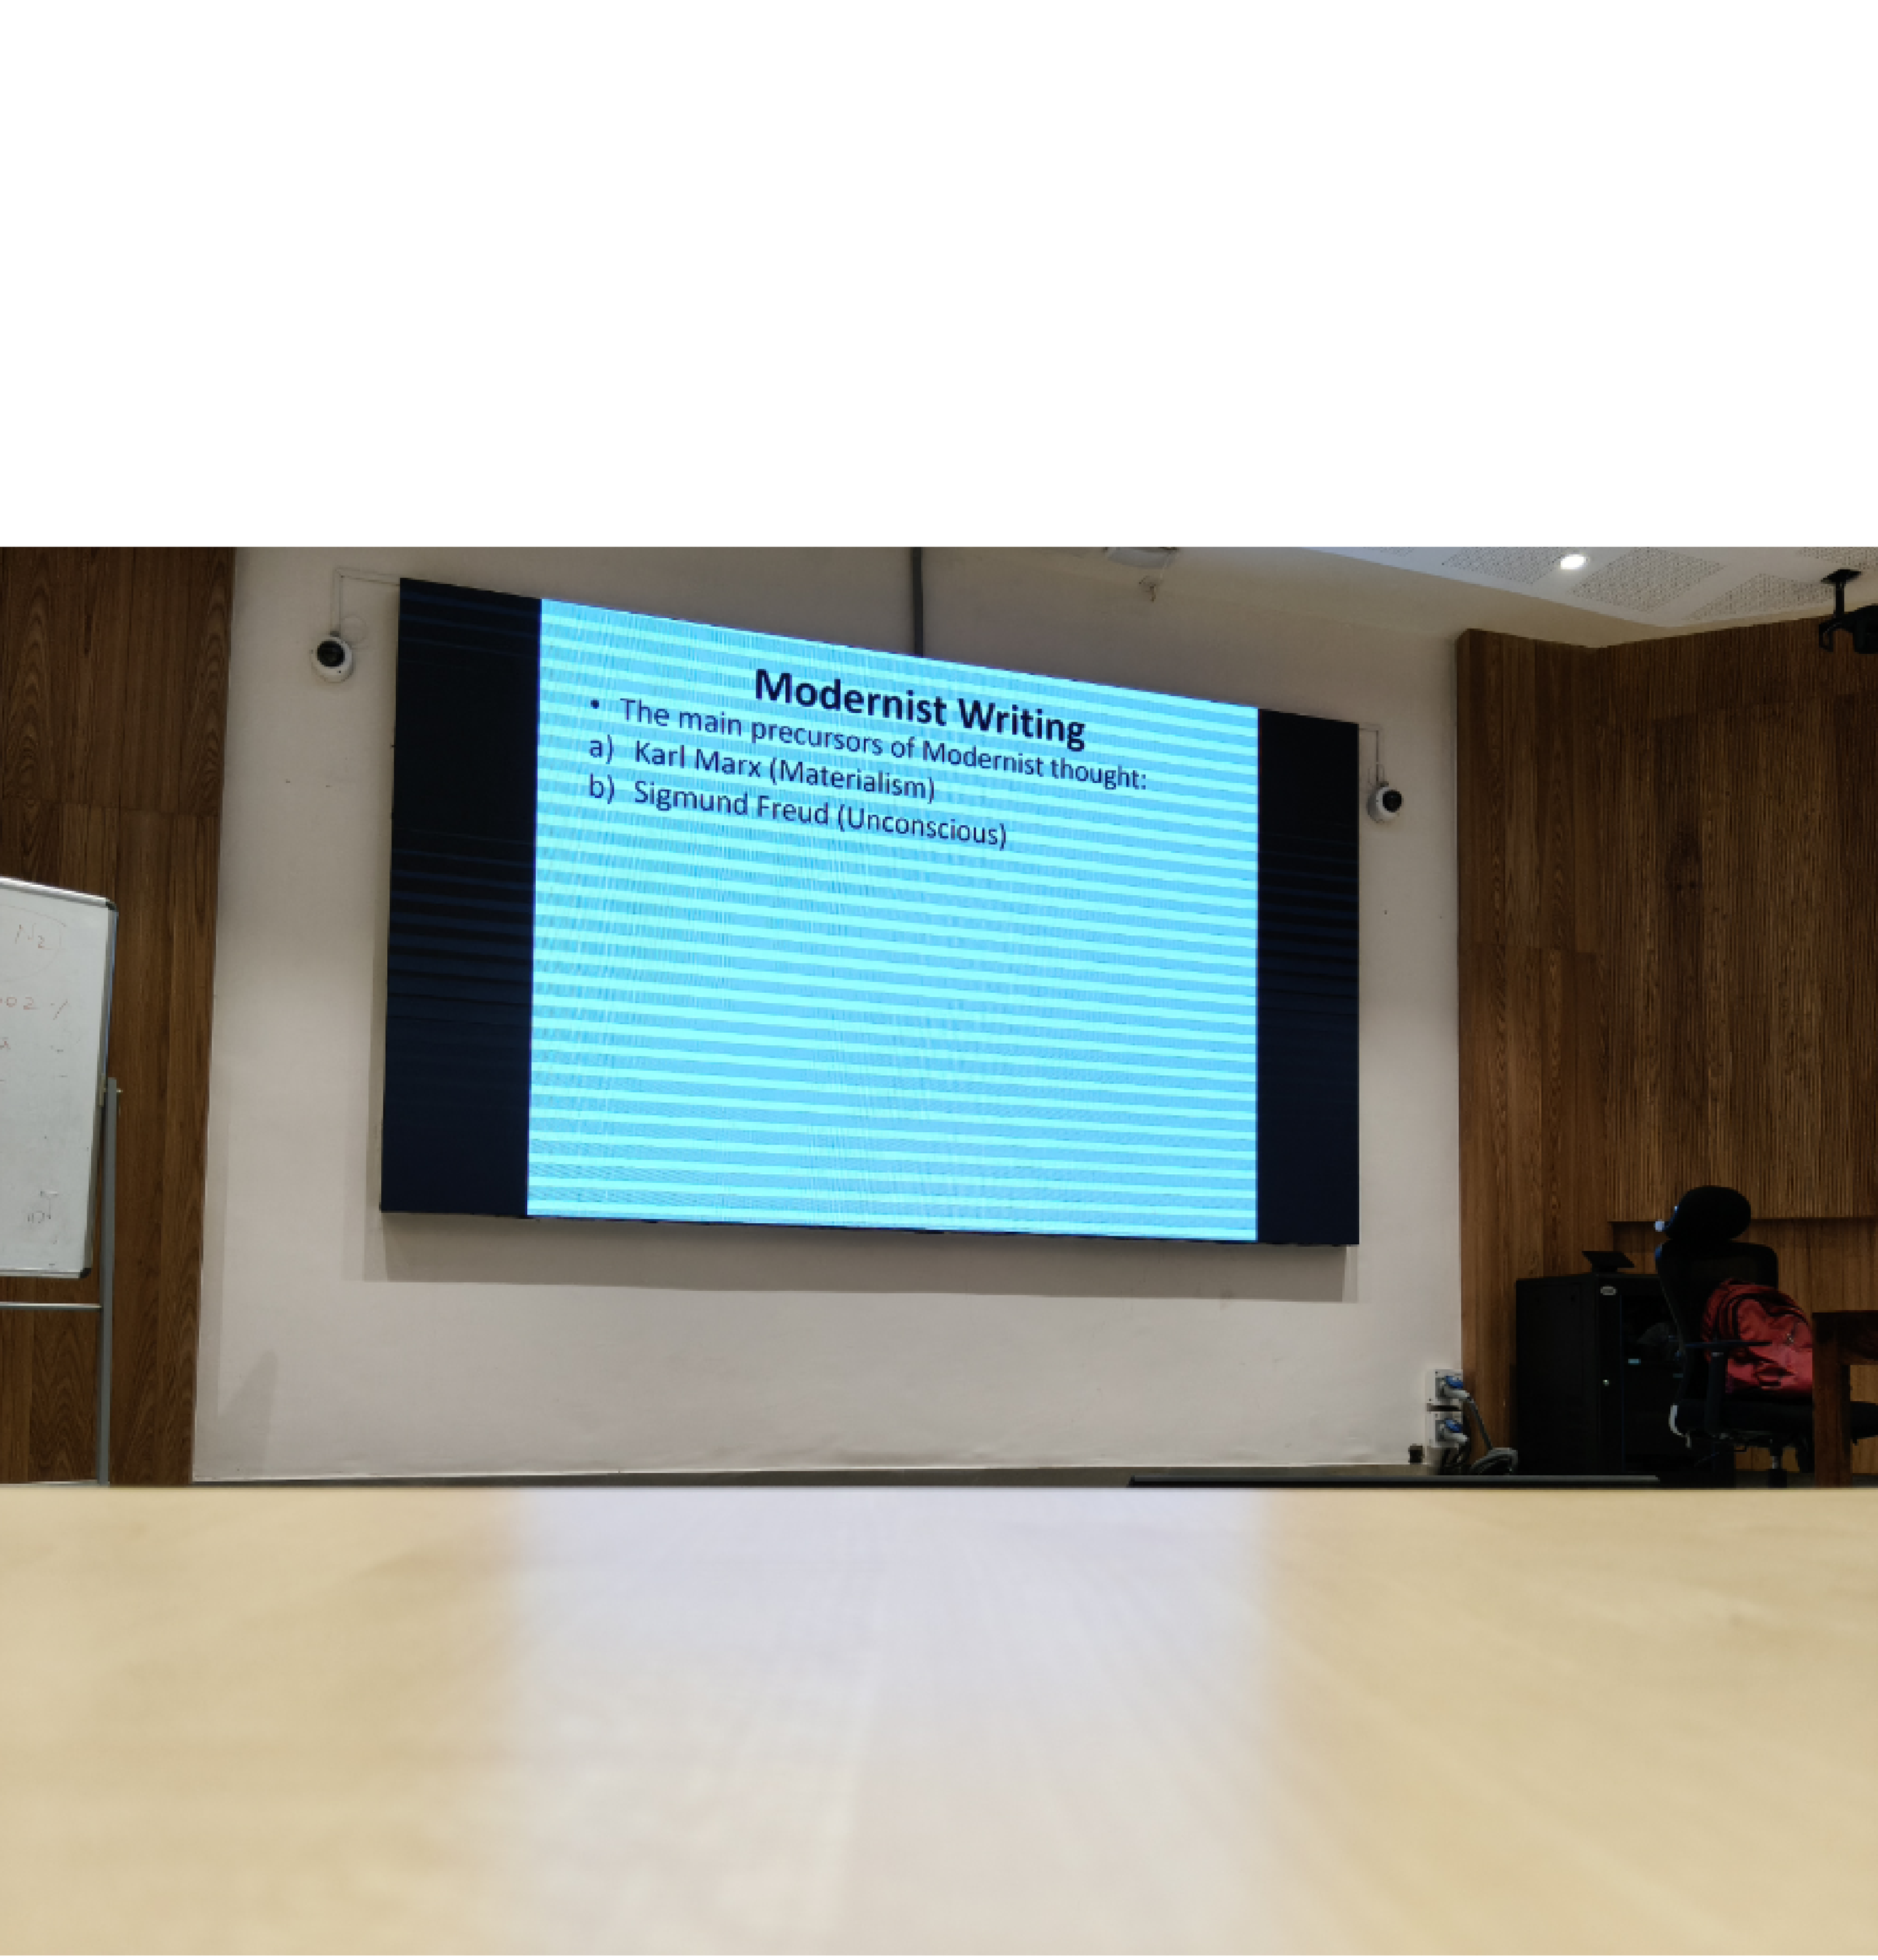
Biography

- Born in New Zealand to English parents
- Migrated to England at 19
- One of the pre-eminent writers of the English short story
- Belonged the Modernist tradition

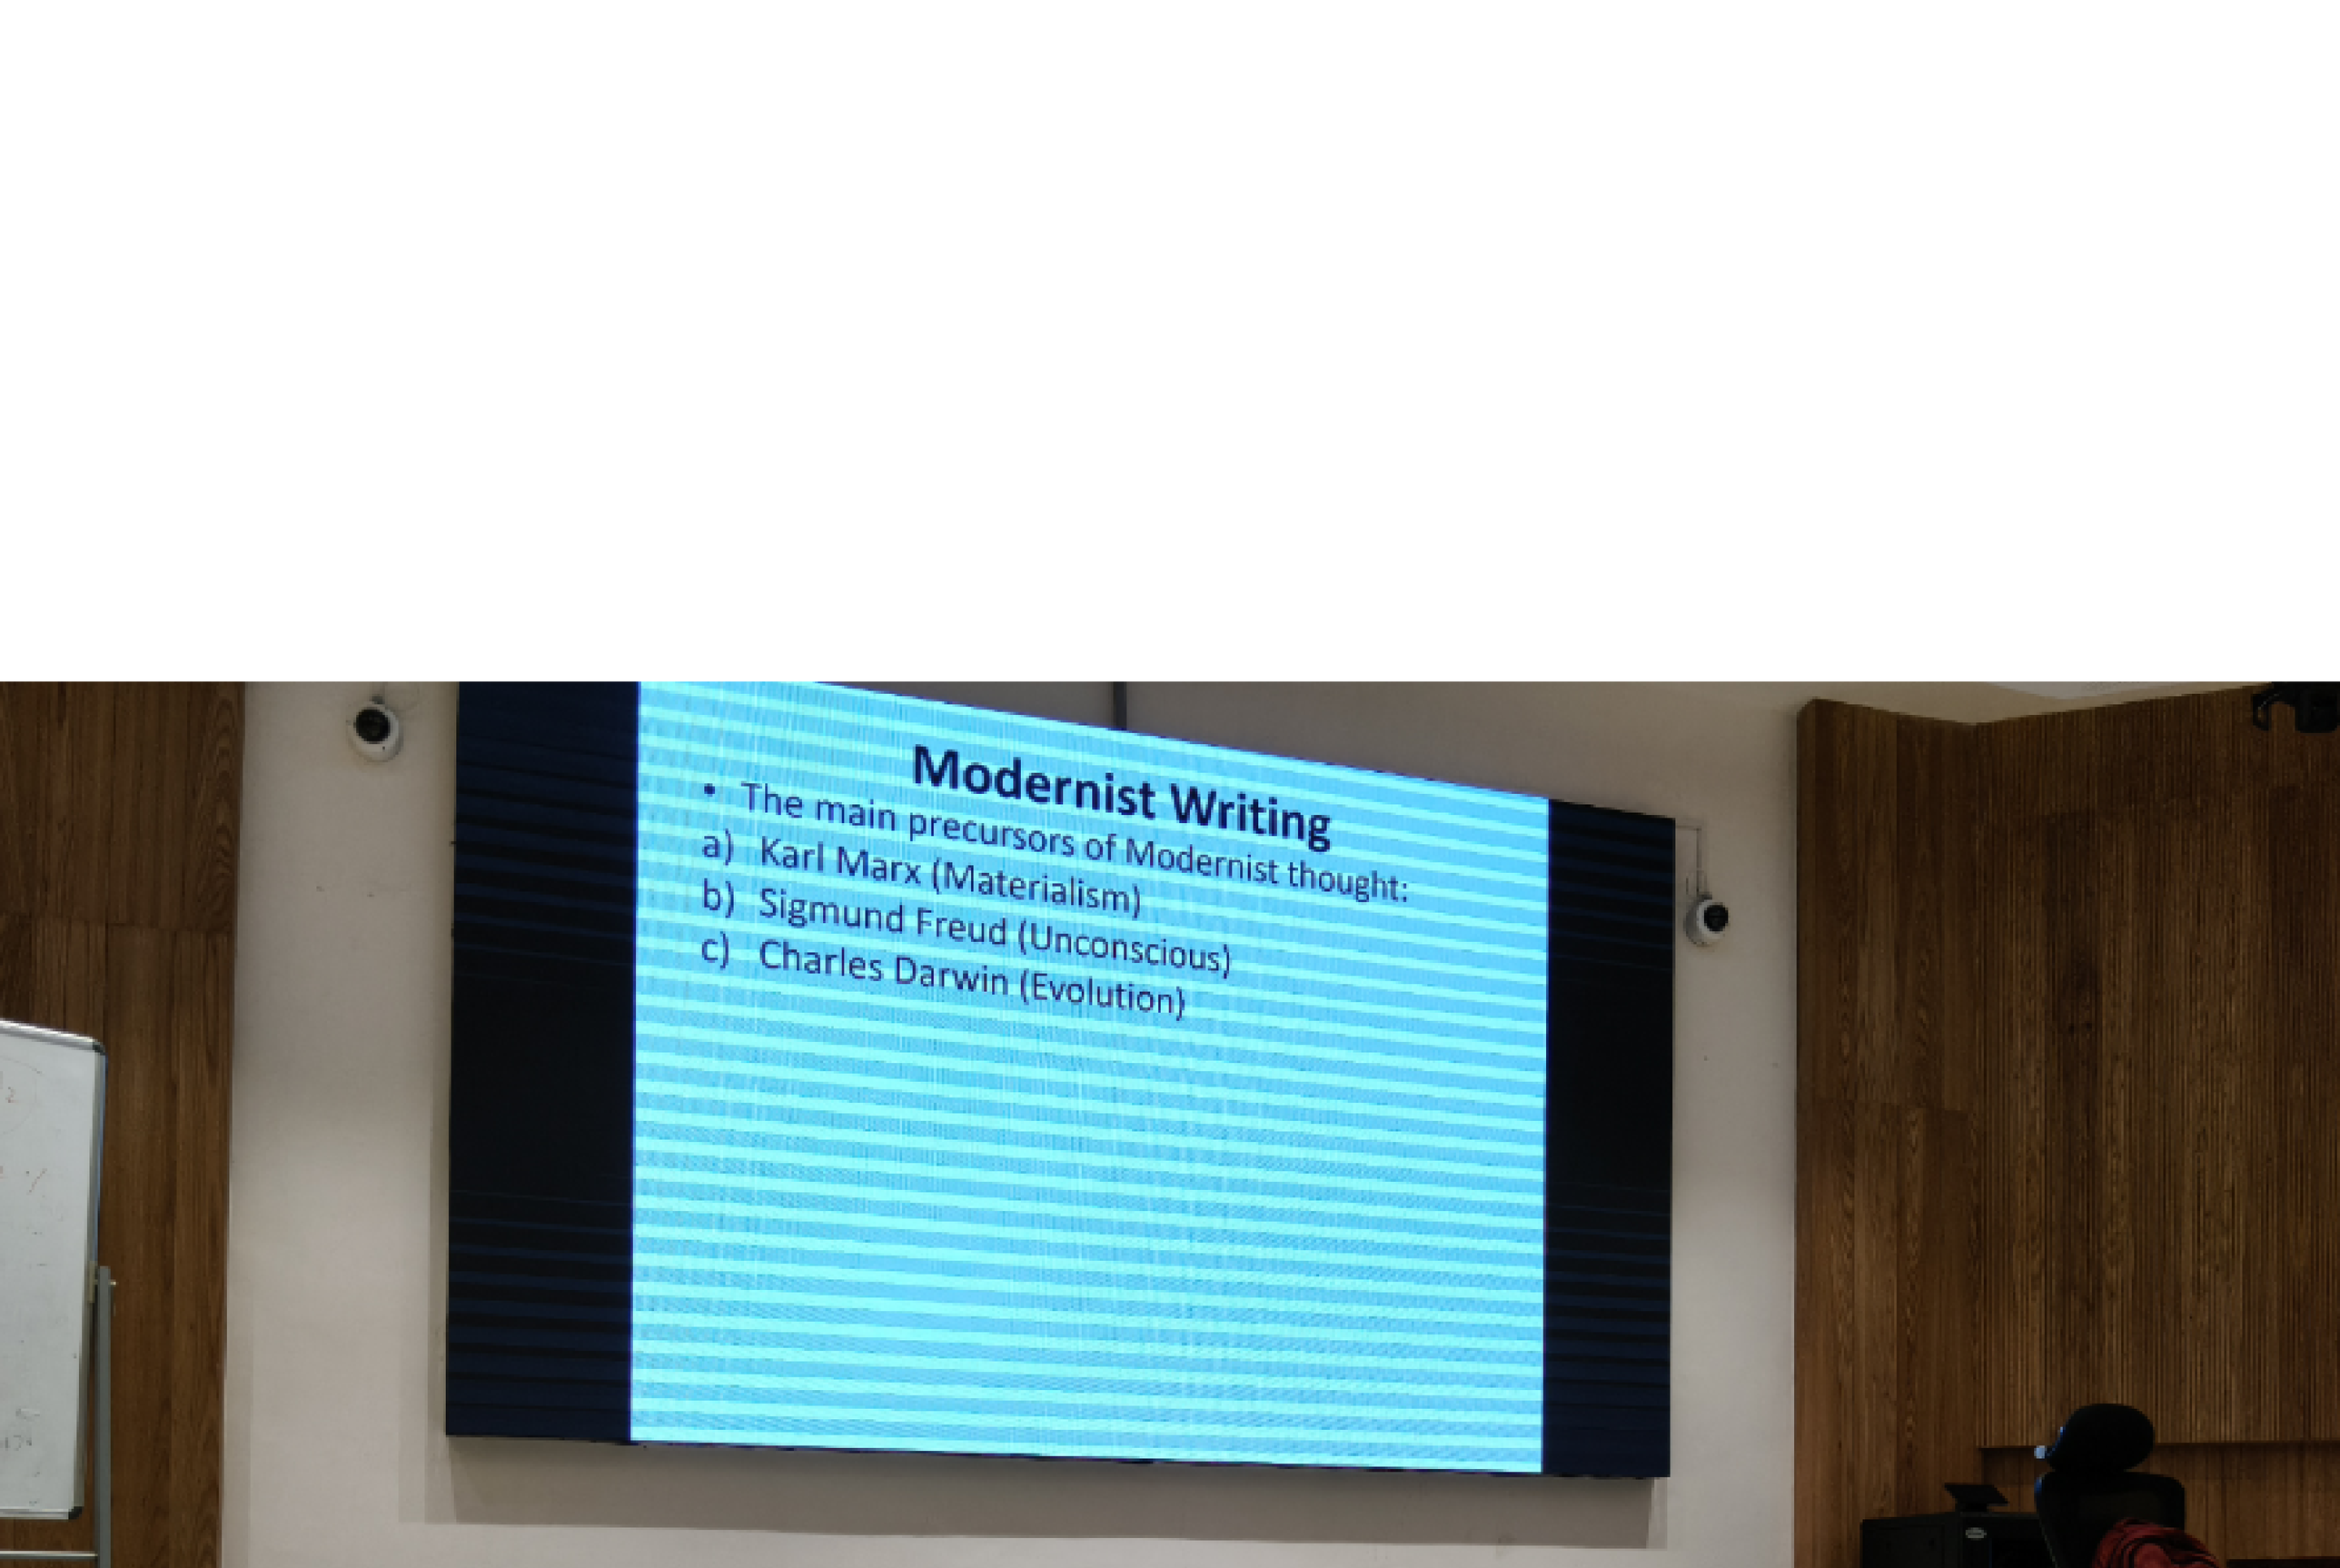


Modernist Writing
• The main precursors of Modernist thought:

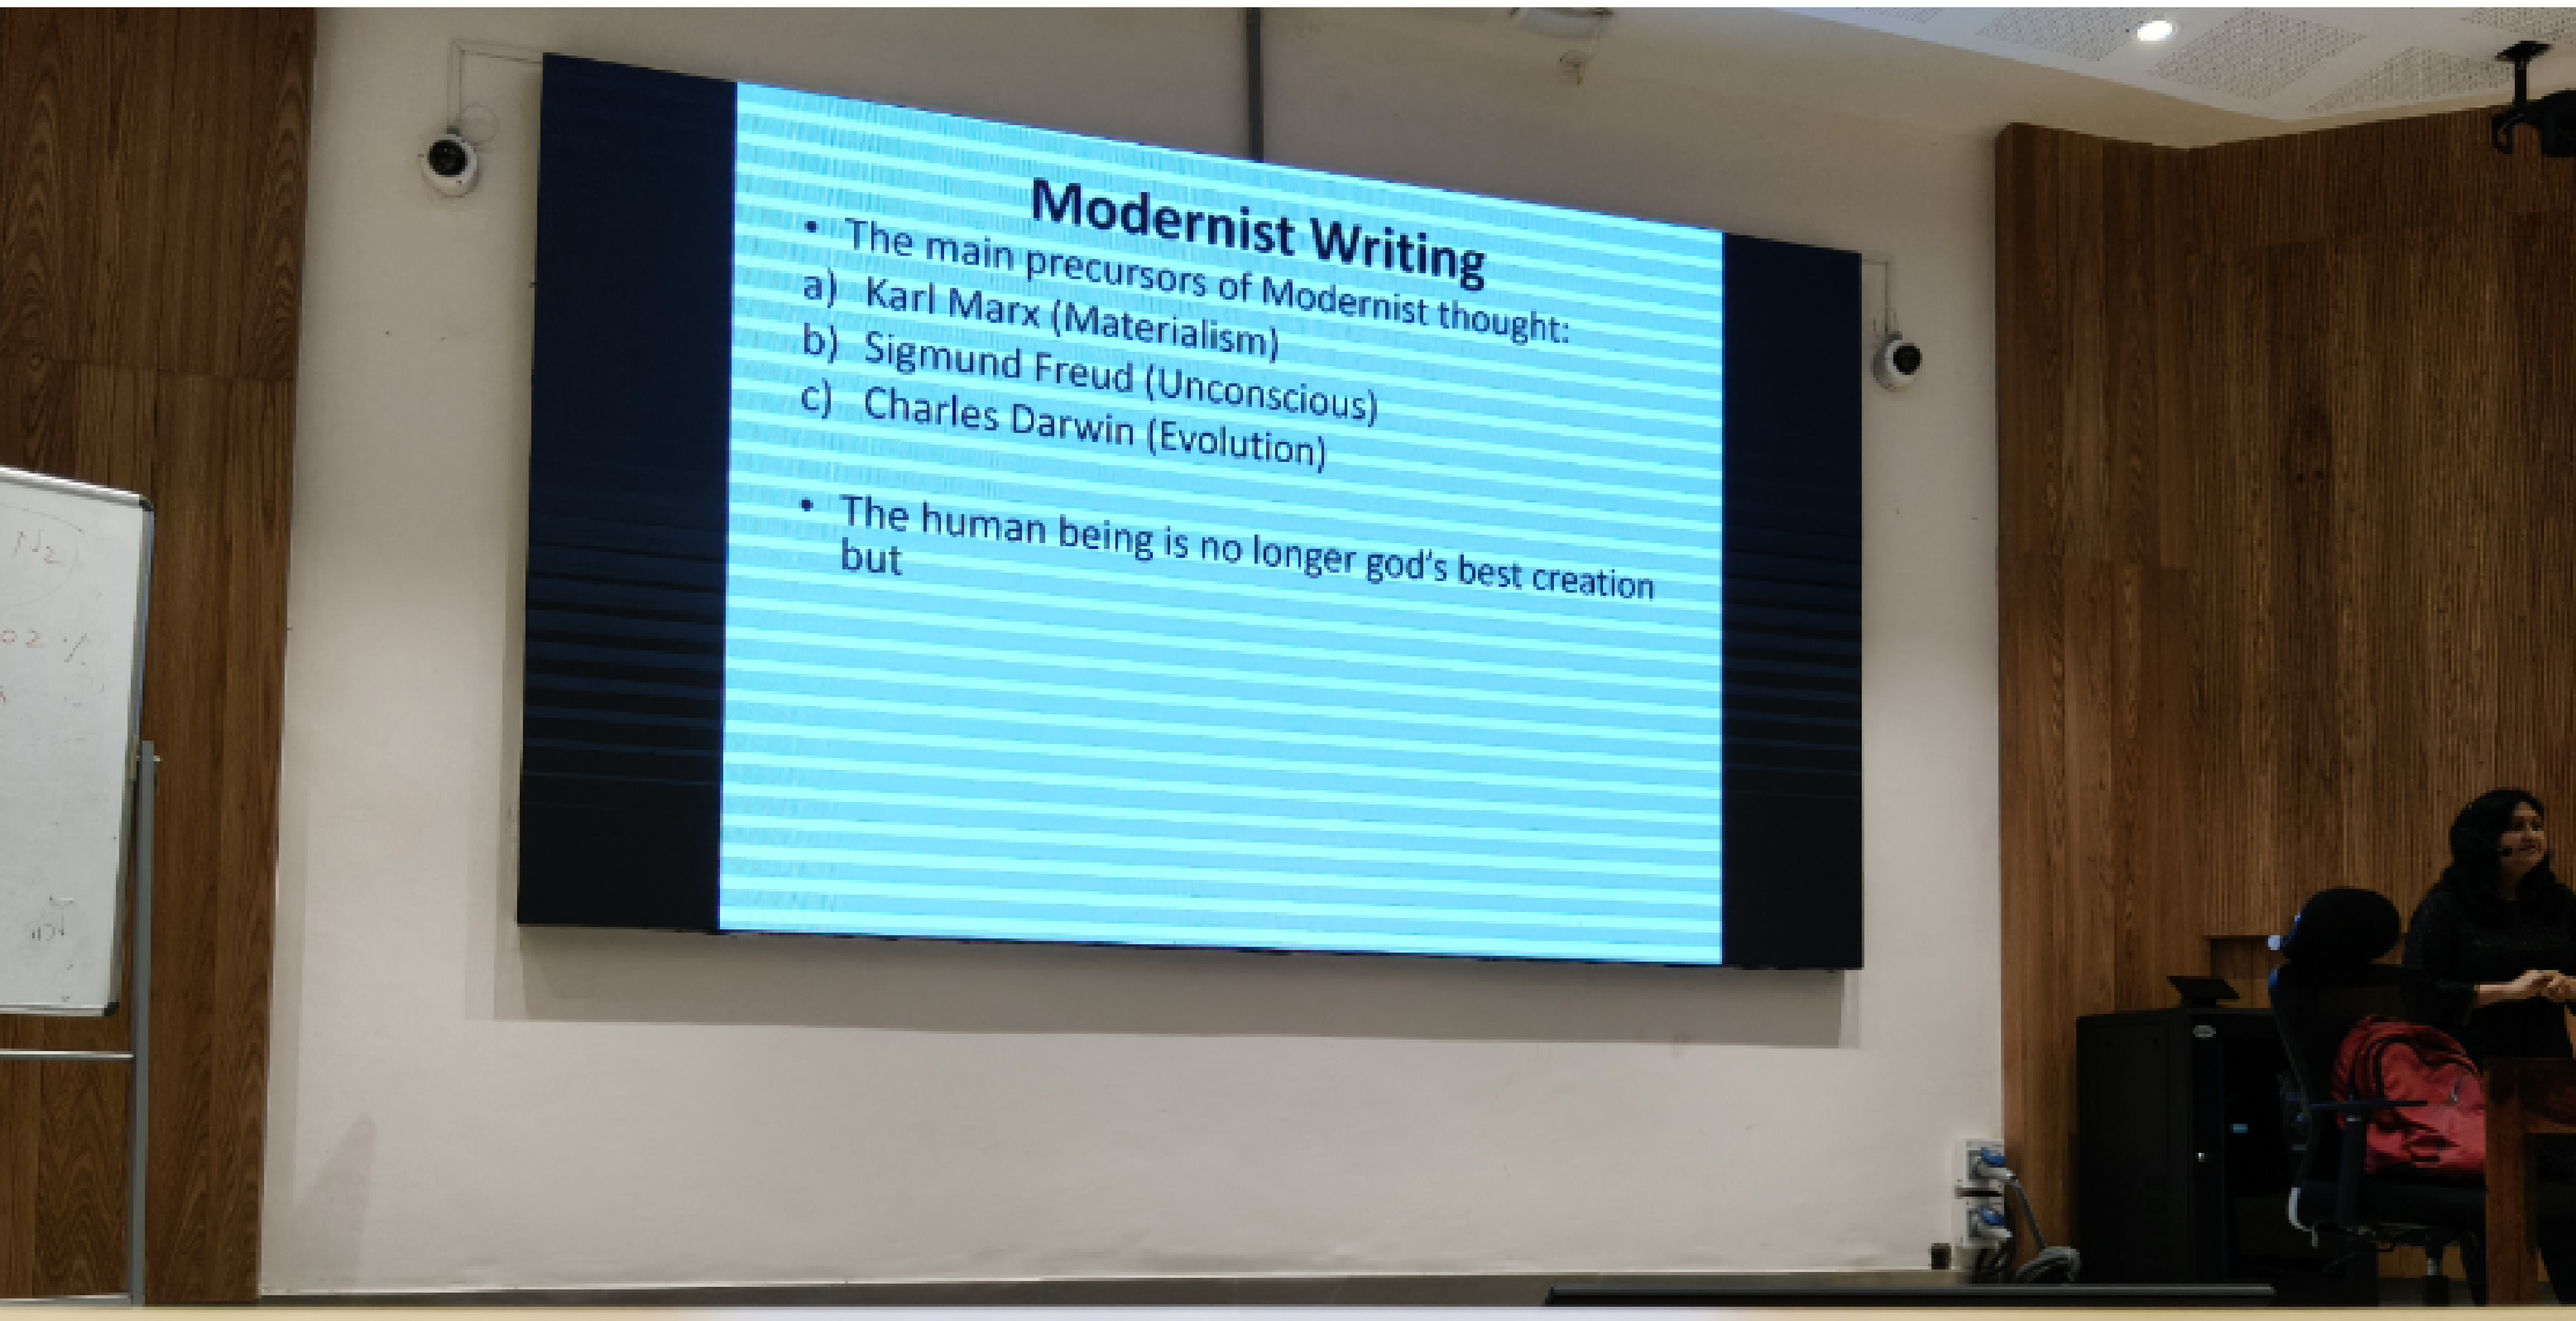
Modernist Writing
• The main precursors of Modernist thought:
a) Karl Marx (Materialism)



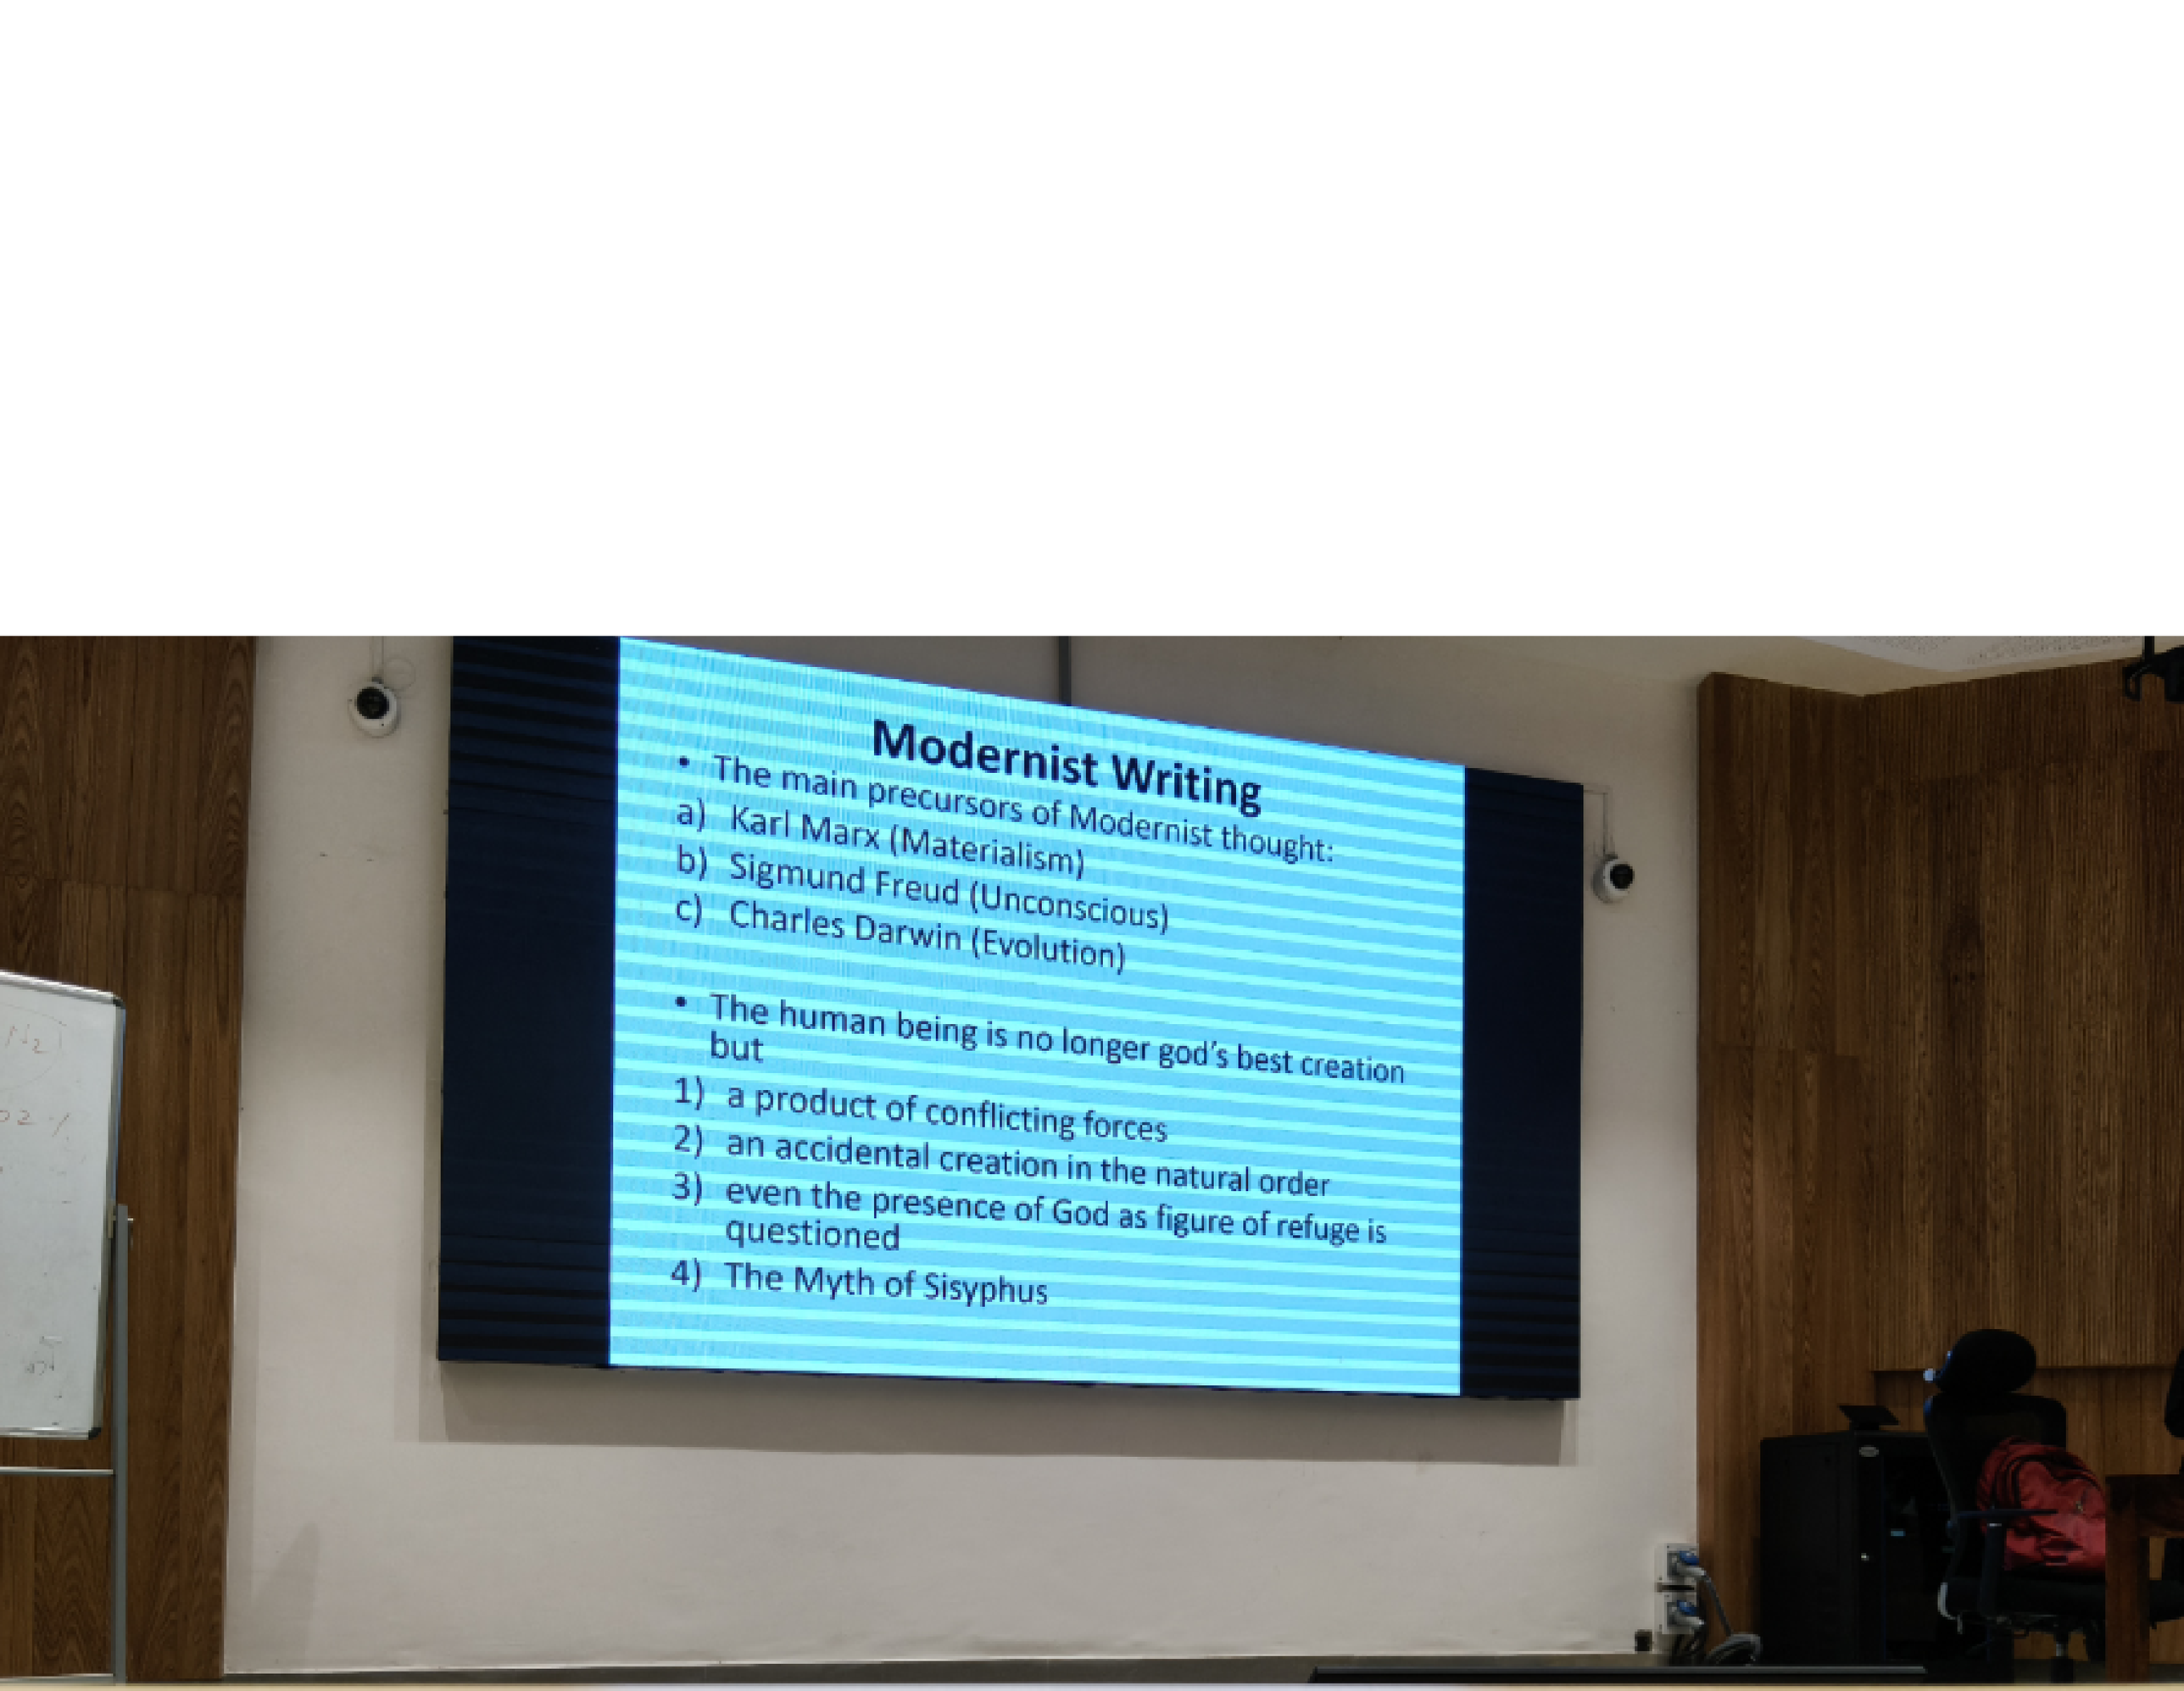
Modernist Writing
• The main precursors of Modernist thought:
a) Karl Marx (Materialism)
b) Sigmund Freud (Unconscious)



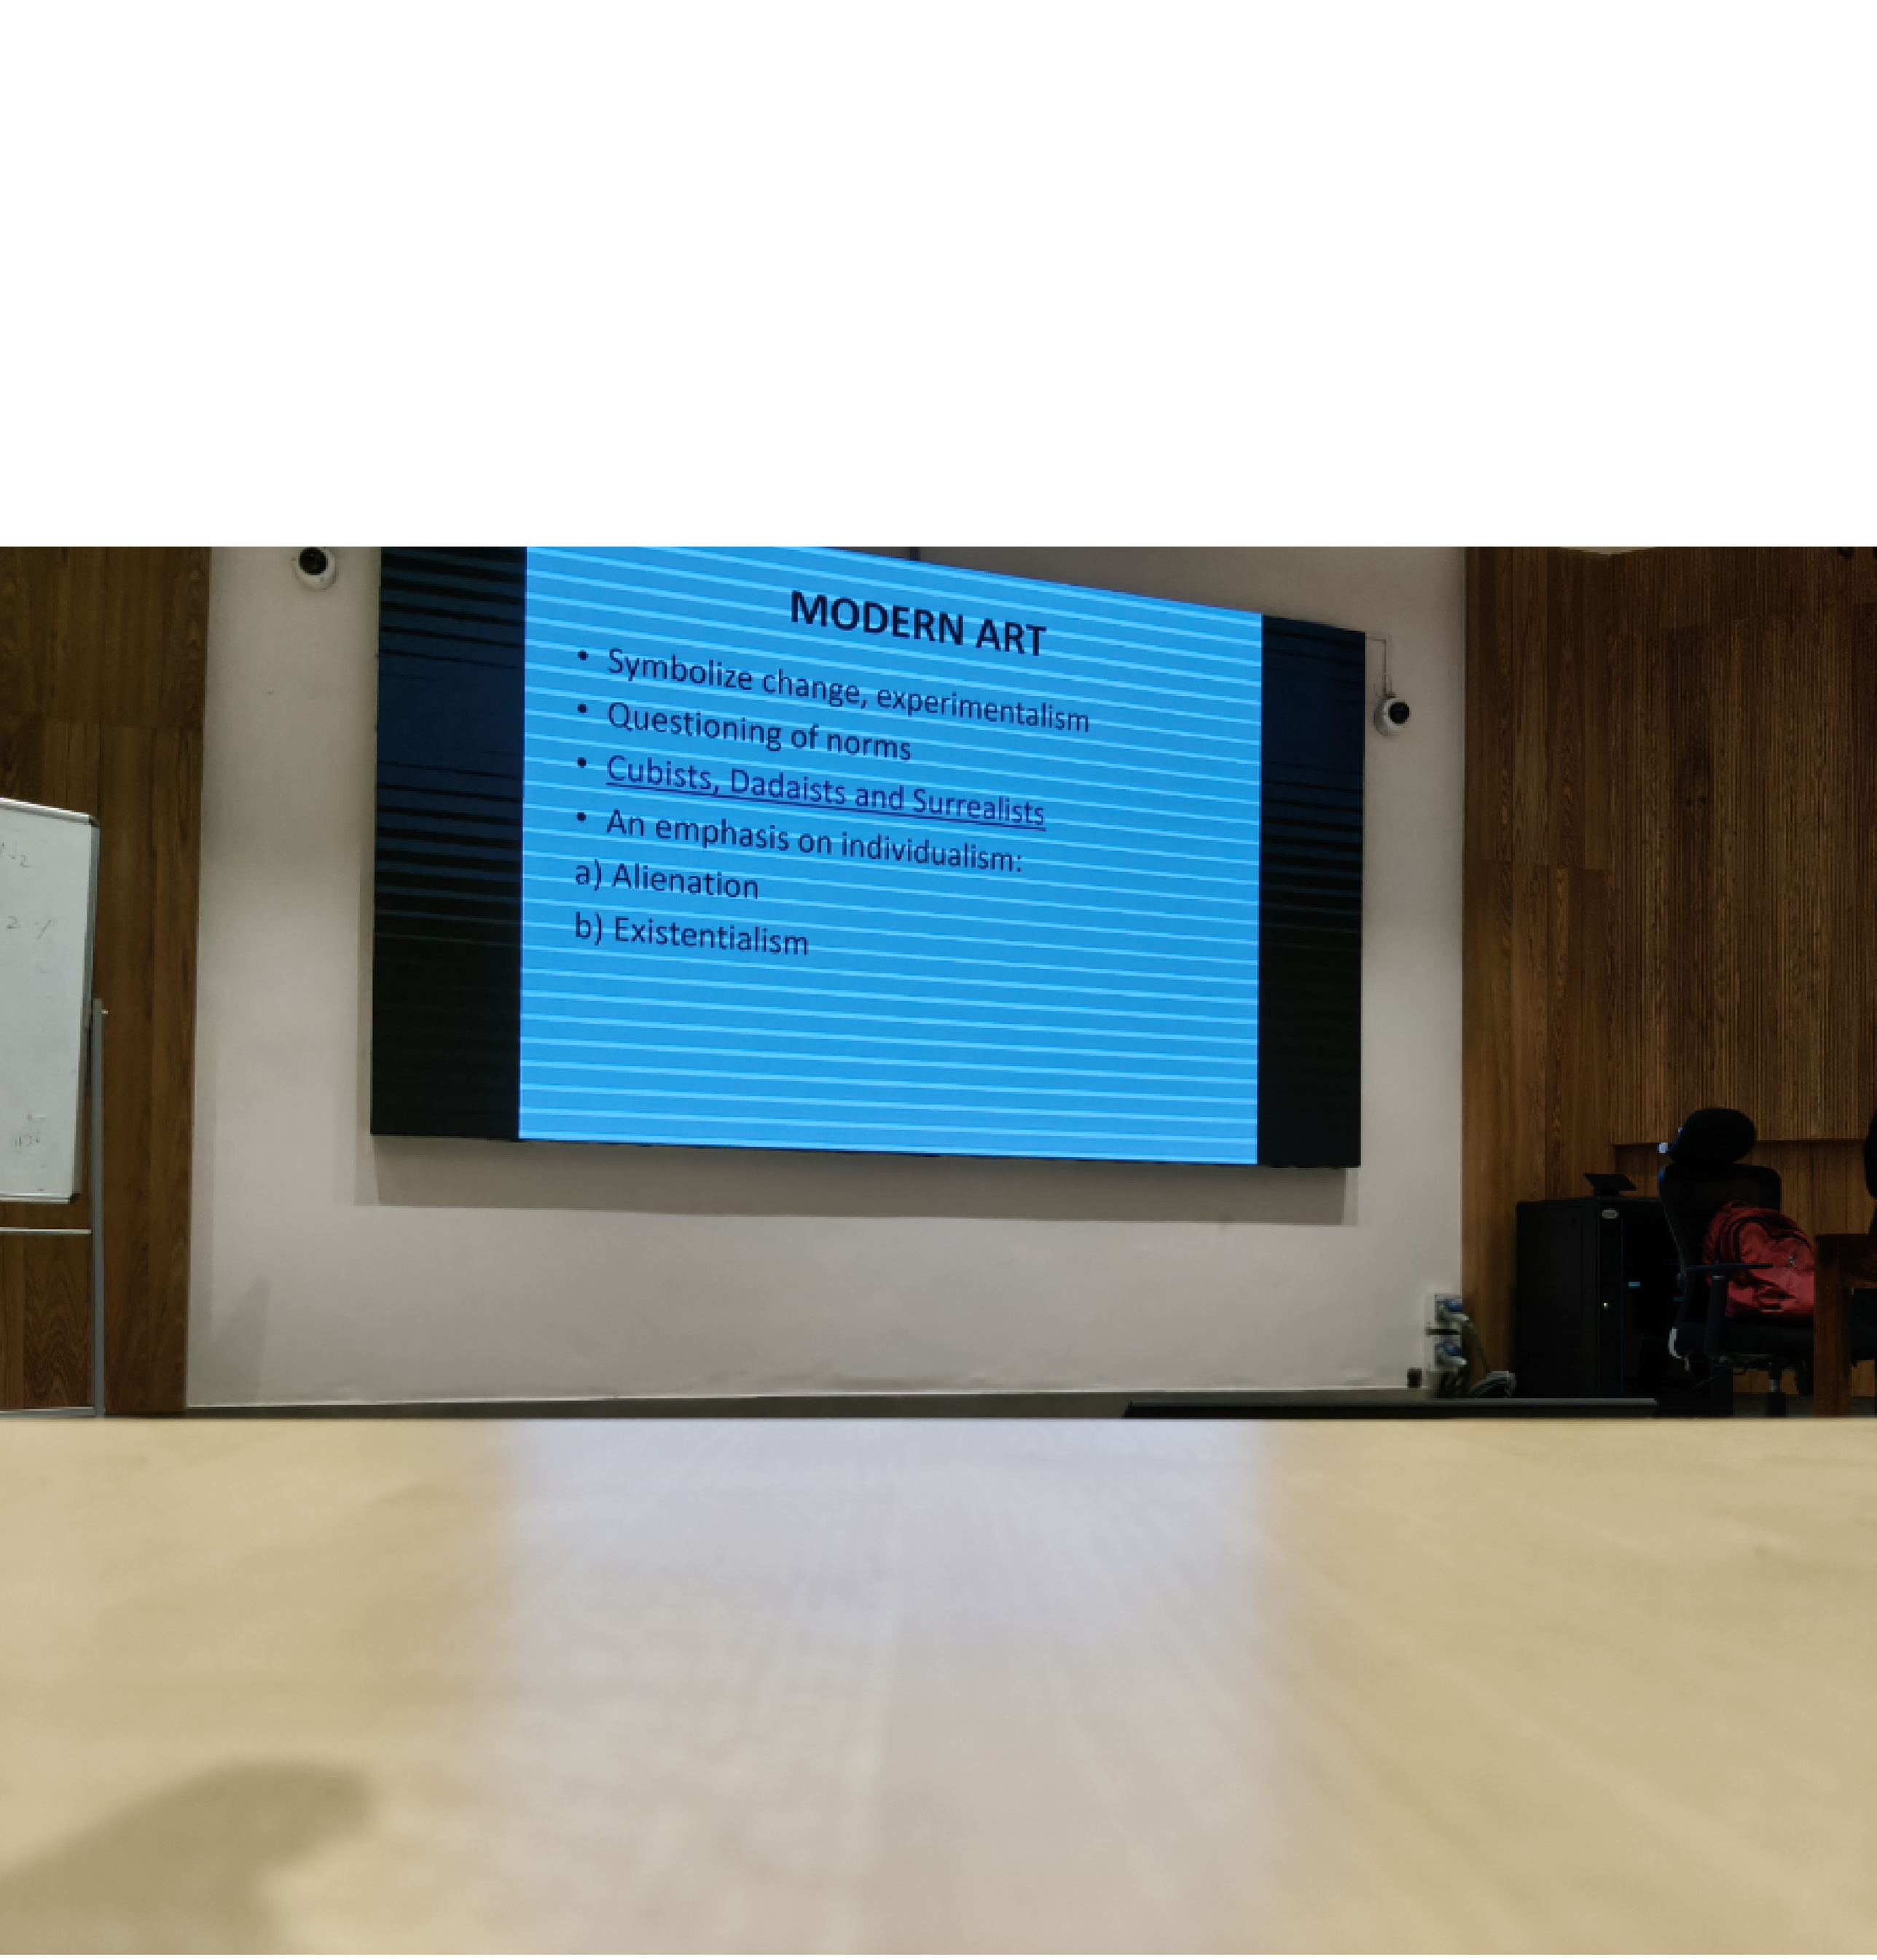
Modernist Writing
• The main precursors of Modernist thought:
a) Karl Marx (Materialism)
b) Sigmund Freud (Unconscious)
c) Charles Darwin (Evolution)



Modernist Writing
• The main precursors of Modernist thought:
a) Karl Marx (Materialism)
b) Sigmund Freud (Unconscious)
c) Charles Darwin (Evolution)
• The human being is no longer god's best creation but

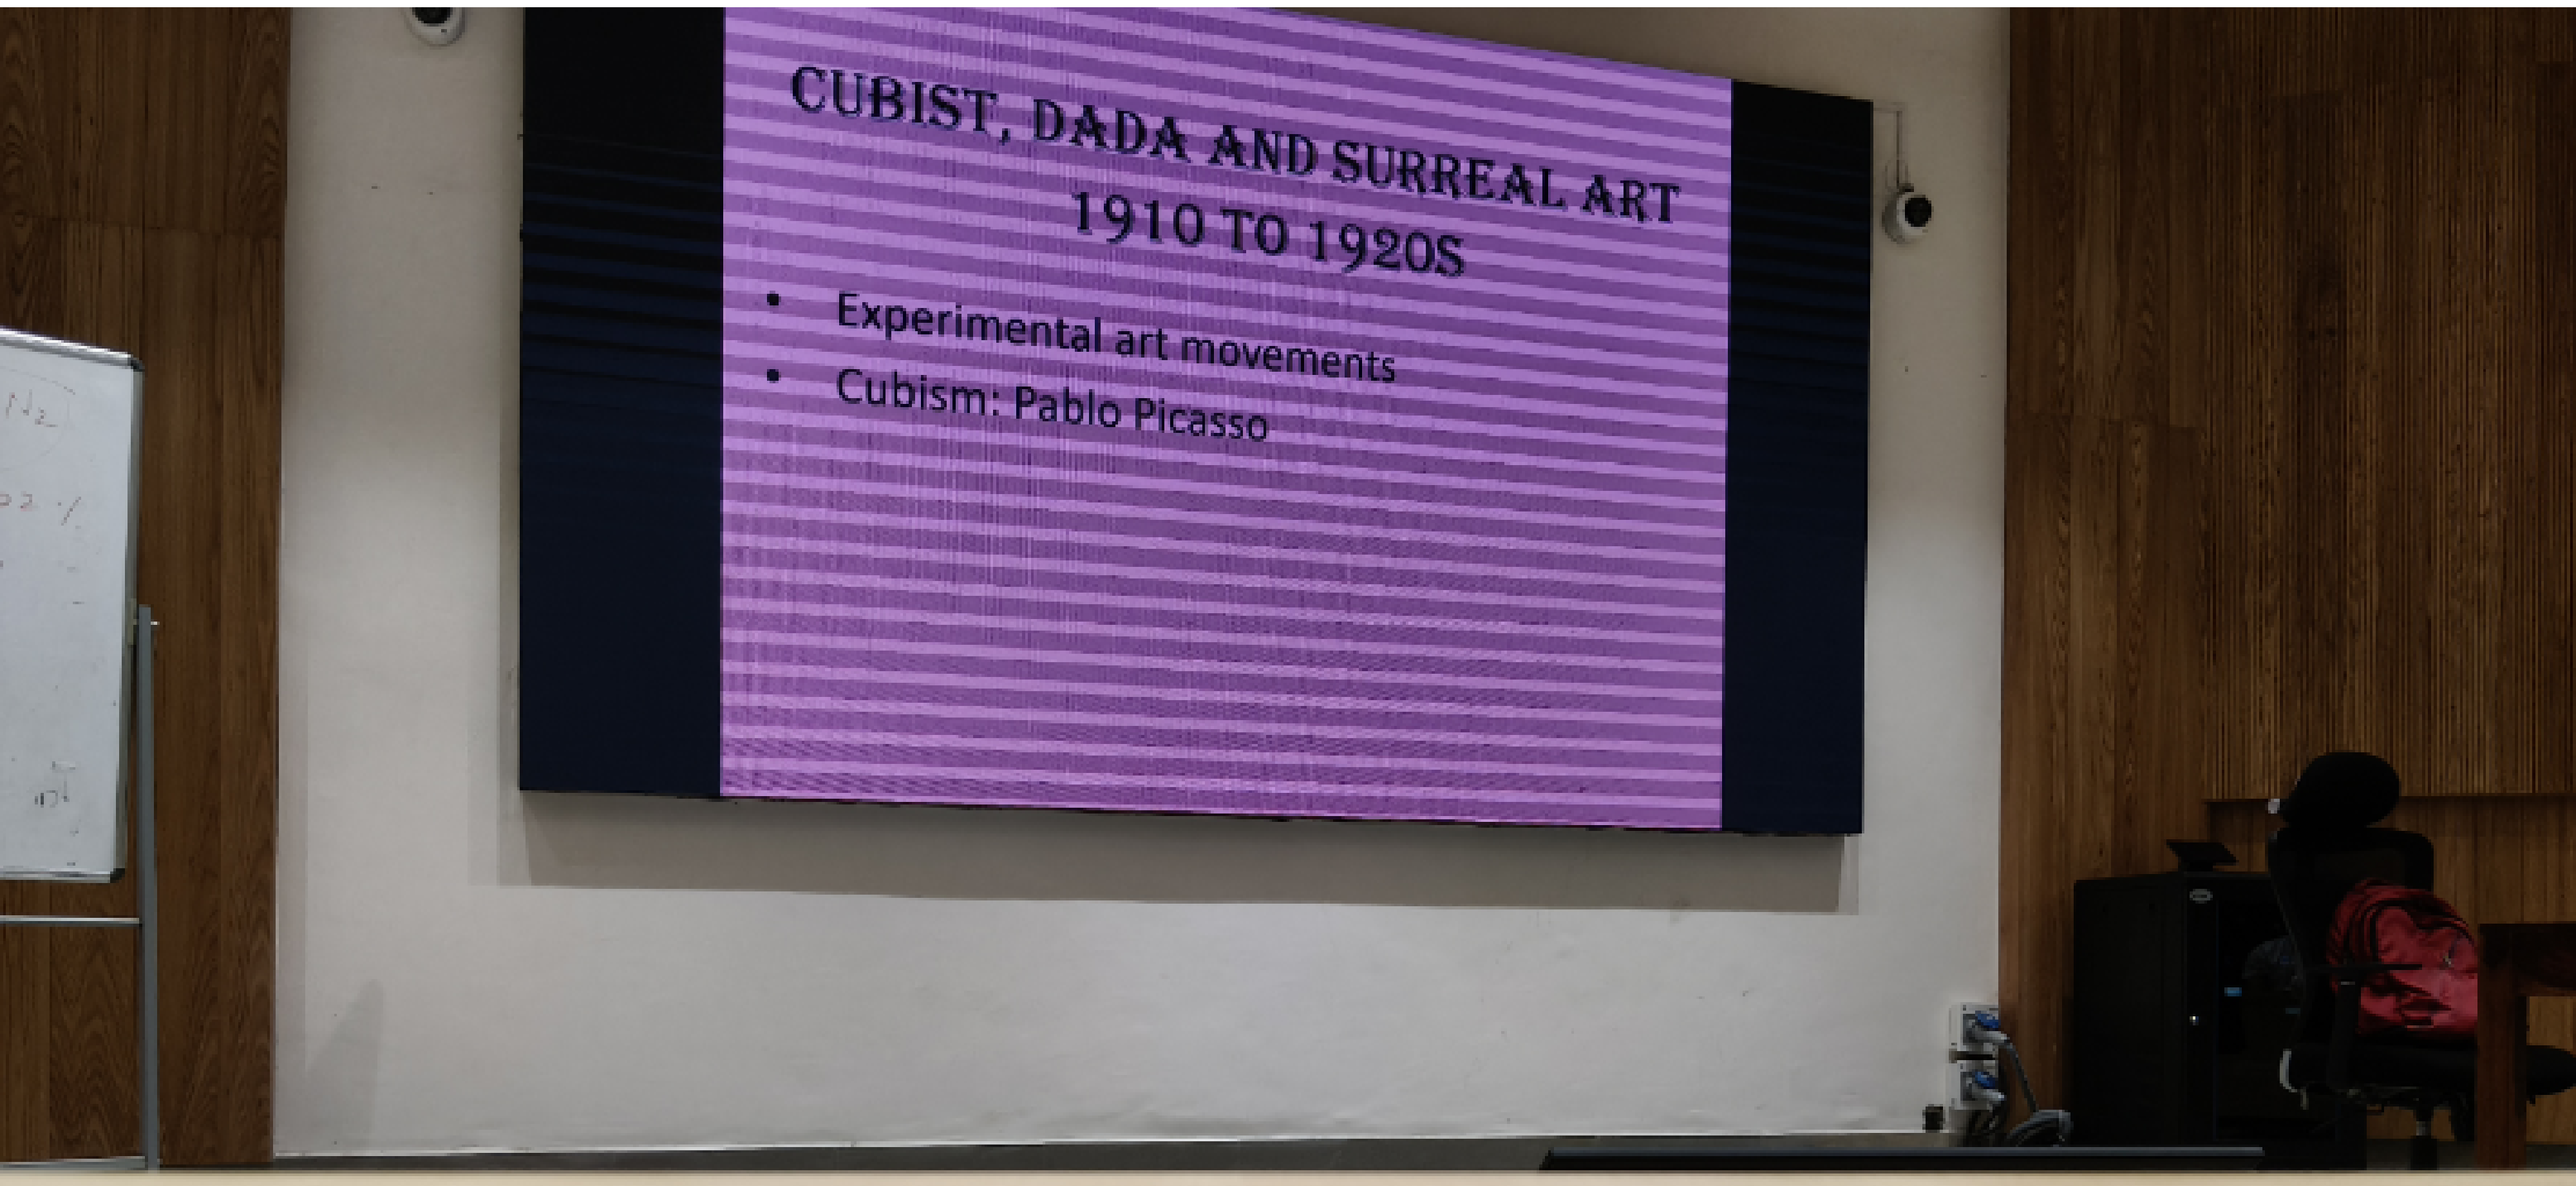


Modernist Writing
• The main precursors of Modernist thought:
a) Karl Marx (Materialism)
b) Sigmund Freud (Unconscious)
c) Charles Darwin (Evolution)
• The human being is no longer god's best creation but
1) a product of conflicting forces
2) an accidental creation in the natural order
3) even the presence of God as figure of refuge is questioned
4) The Myth of Sisyphus

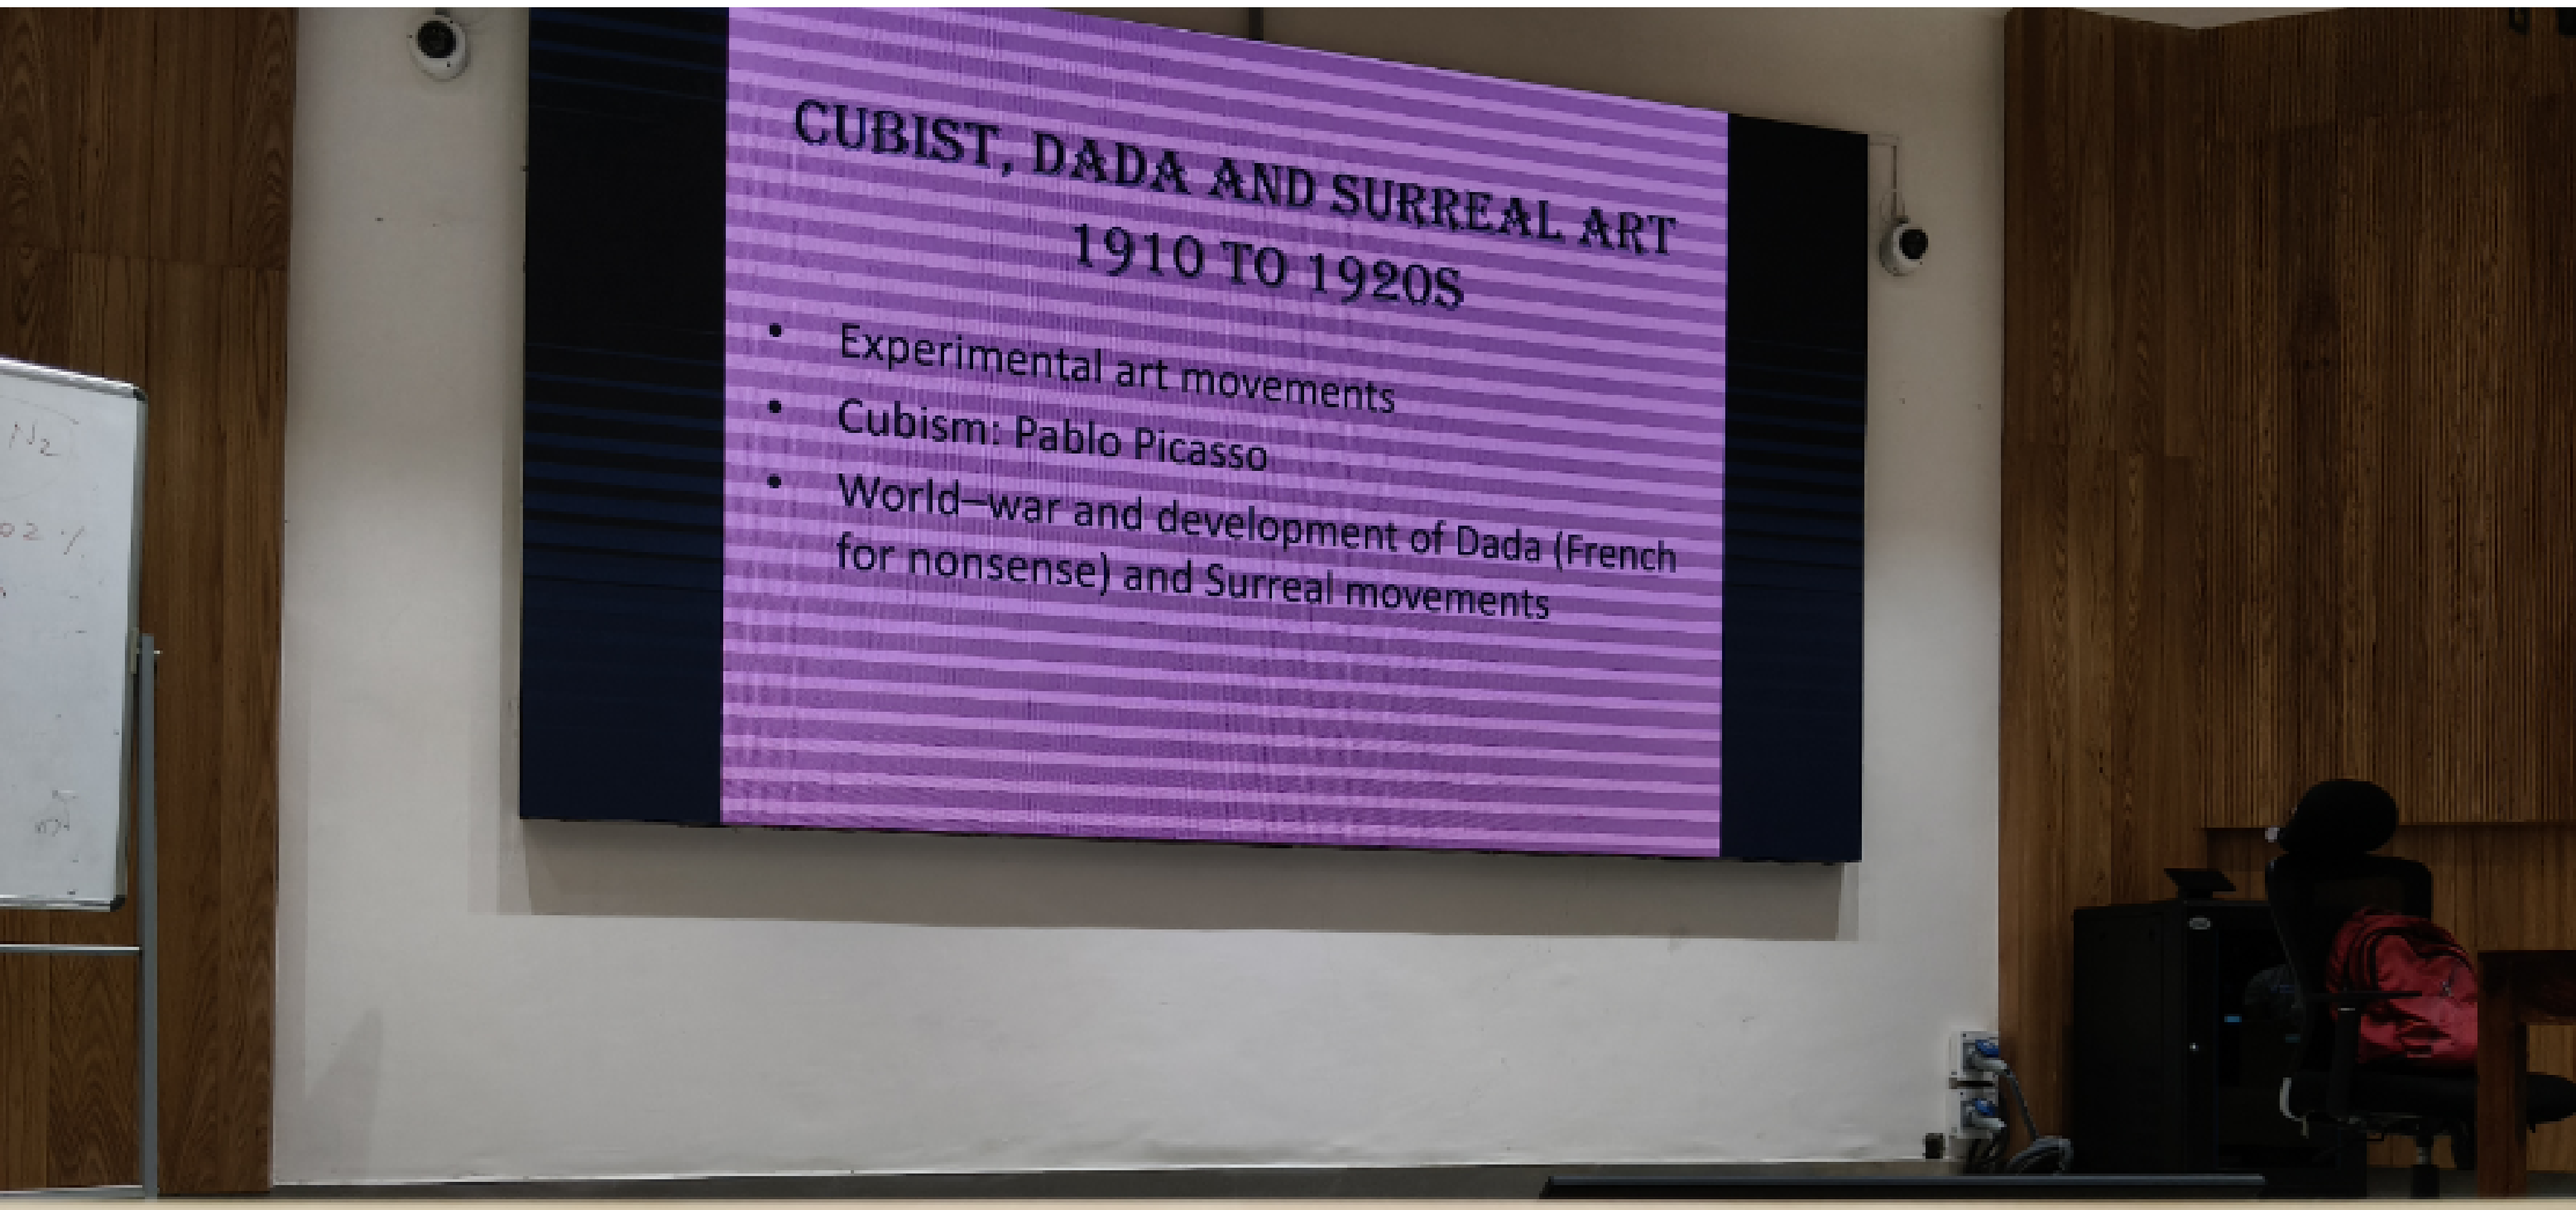


MODERN ART
• Symbolize change, experimentalism
• Questioning of norms
• Cubists, Dadaists and Surrealists
• An emphasis on individualism:
a) Alienation
b) Existentialism

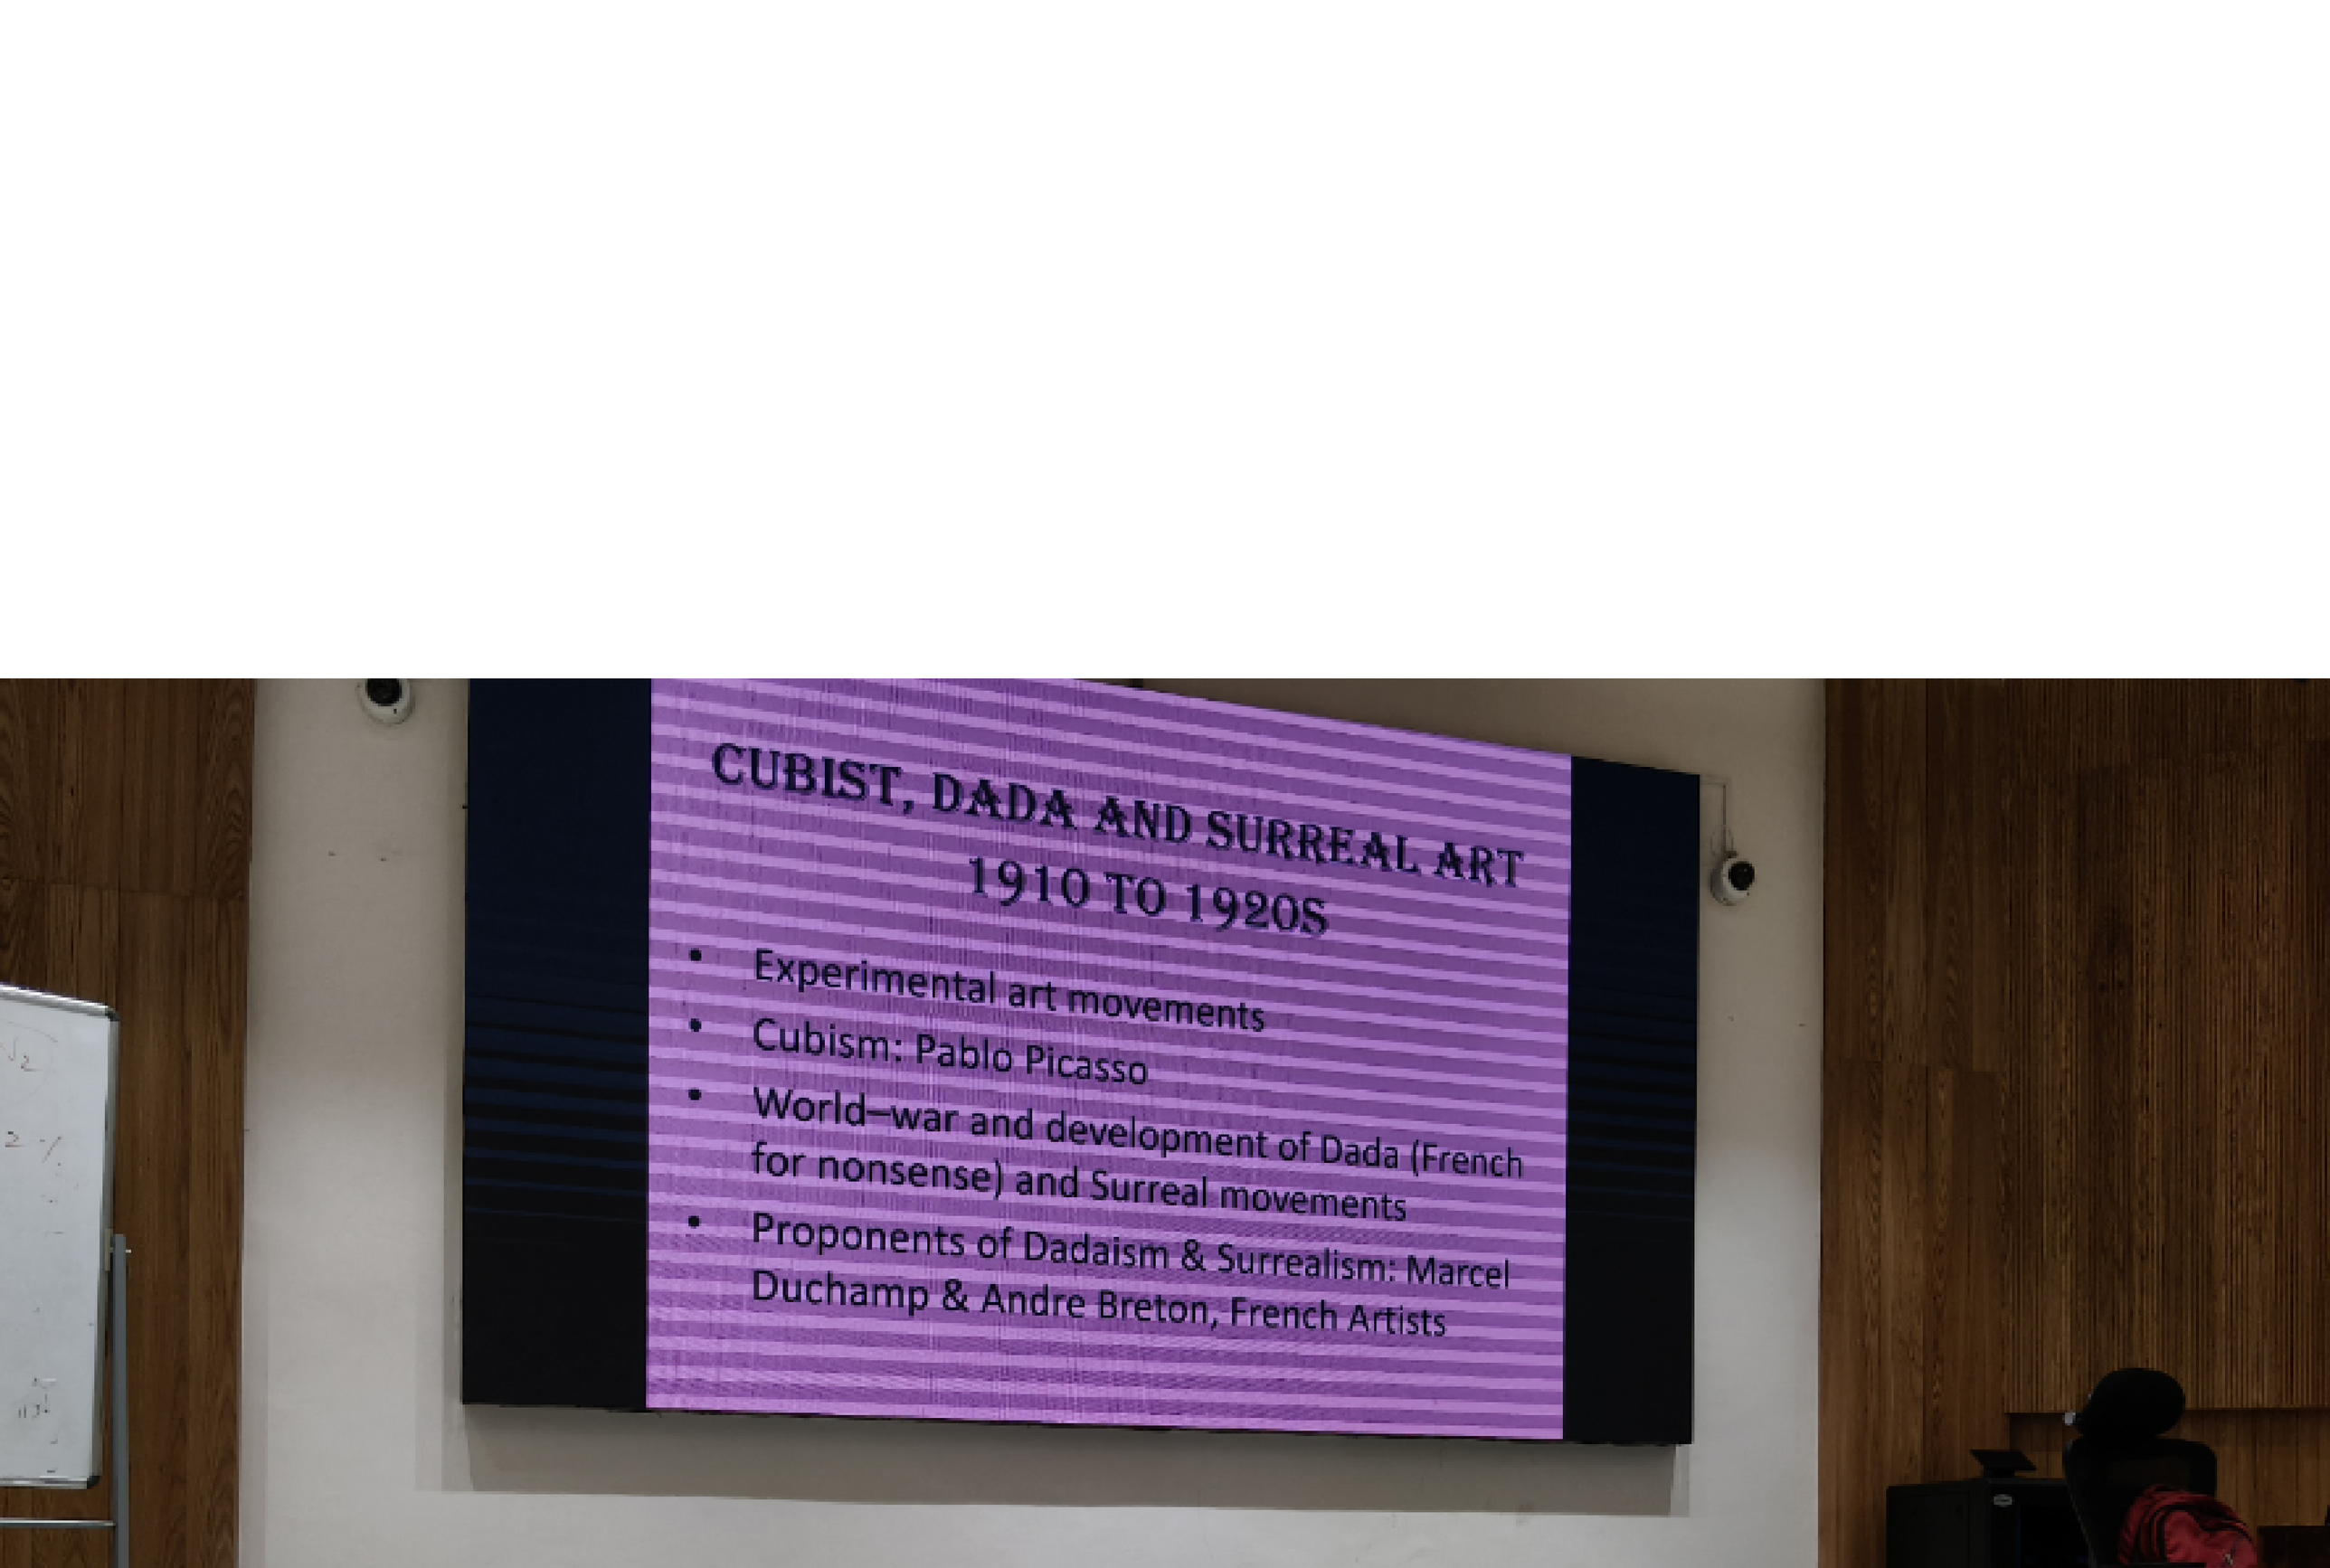
CUBIST, DADA AND SURREAL ART
1910 TO 1920S



CUBIST, DADA AND SURREAL ART
1910 TO 1920S
Experimental art movements
Cubism: Pablo Picasso



CUBIST, DADA AND SURREAL ART
1910 TO 1920S
• Experimental art movements
• Cubism: Pablo Picasso
• World–war and development of Dada (French for nonsense) and Surreal movements



CUBIST, DADA AND SURREAL ART
1910 TO 1920S
• Experimental art movements
• Cubism: Pablo Picasso
• World–war and development of Dada (French for nonsense) and Surreal movements
• Proponents of Dadaism & Surrealism: Marcel Duchamp & Andre Breton, French Artists

Picasso's Portrait of Wilhelm Uhde, 1910

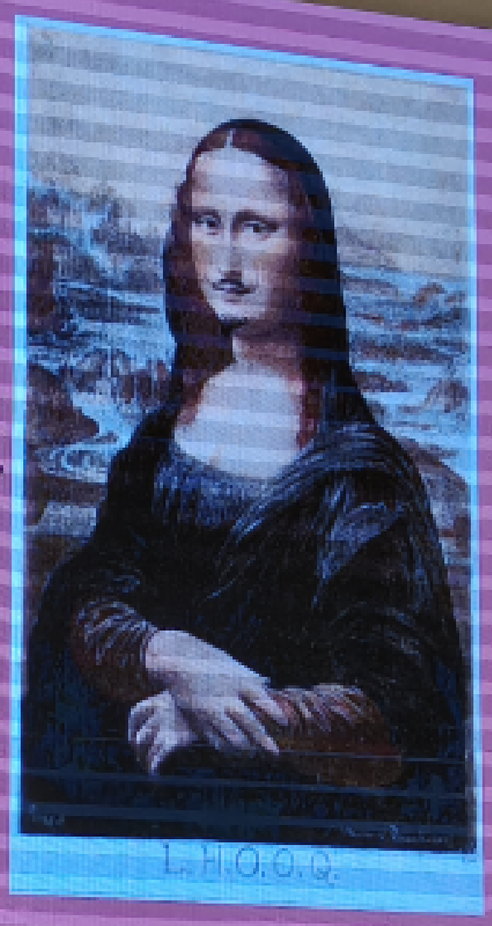
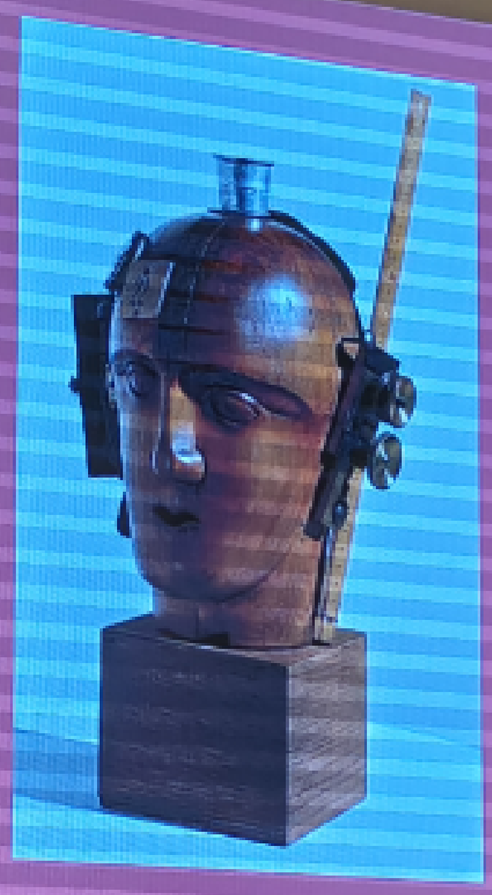
Marcel Duchamp (Dadaist)

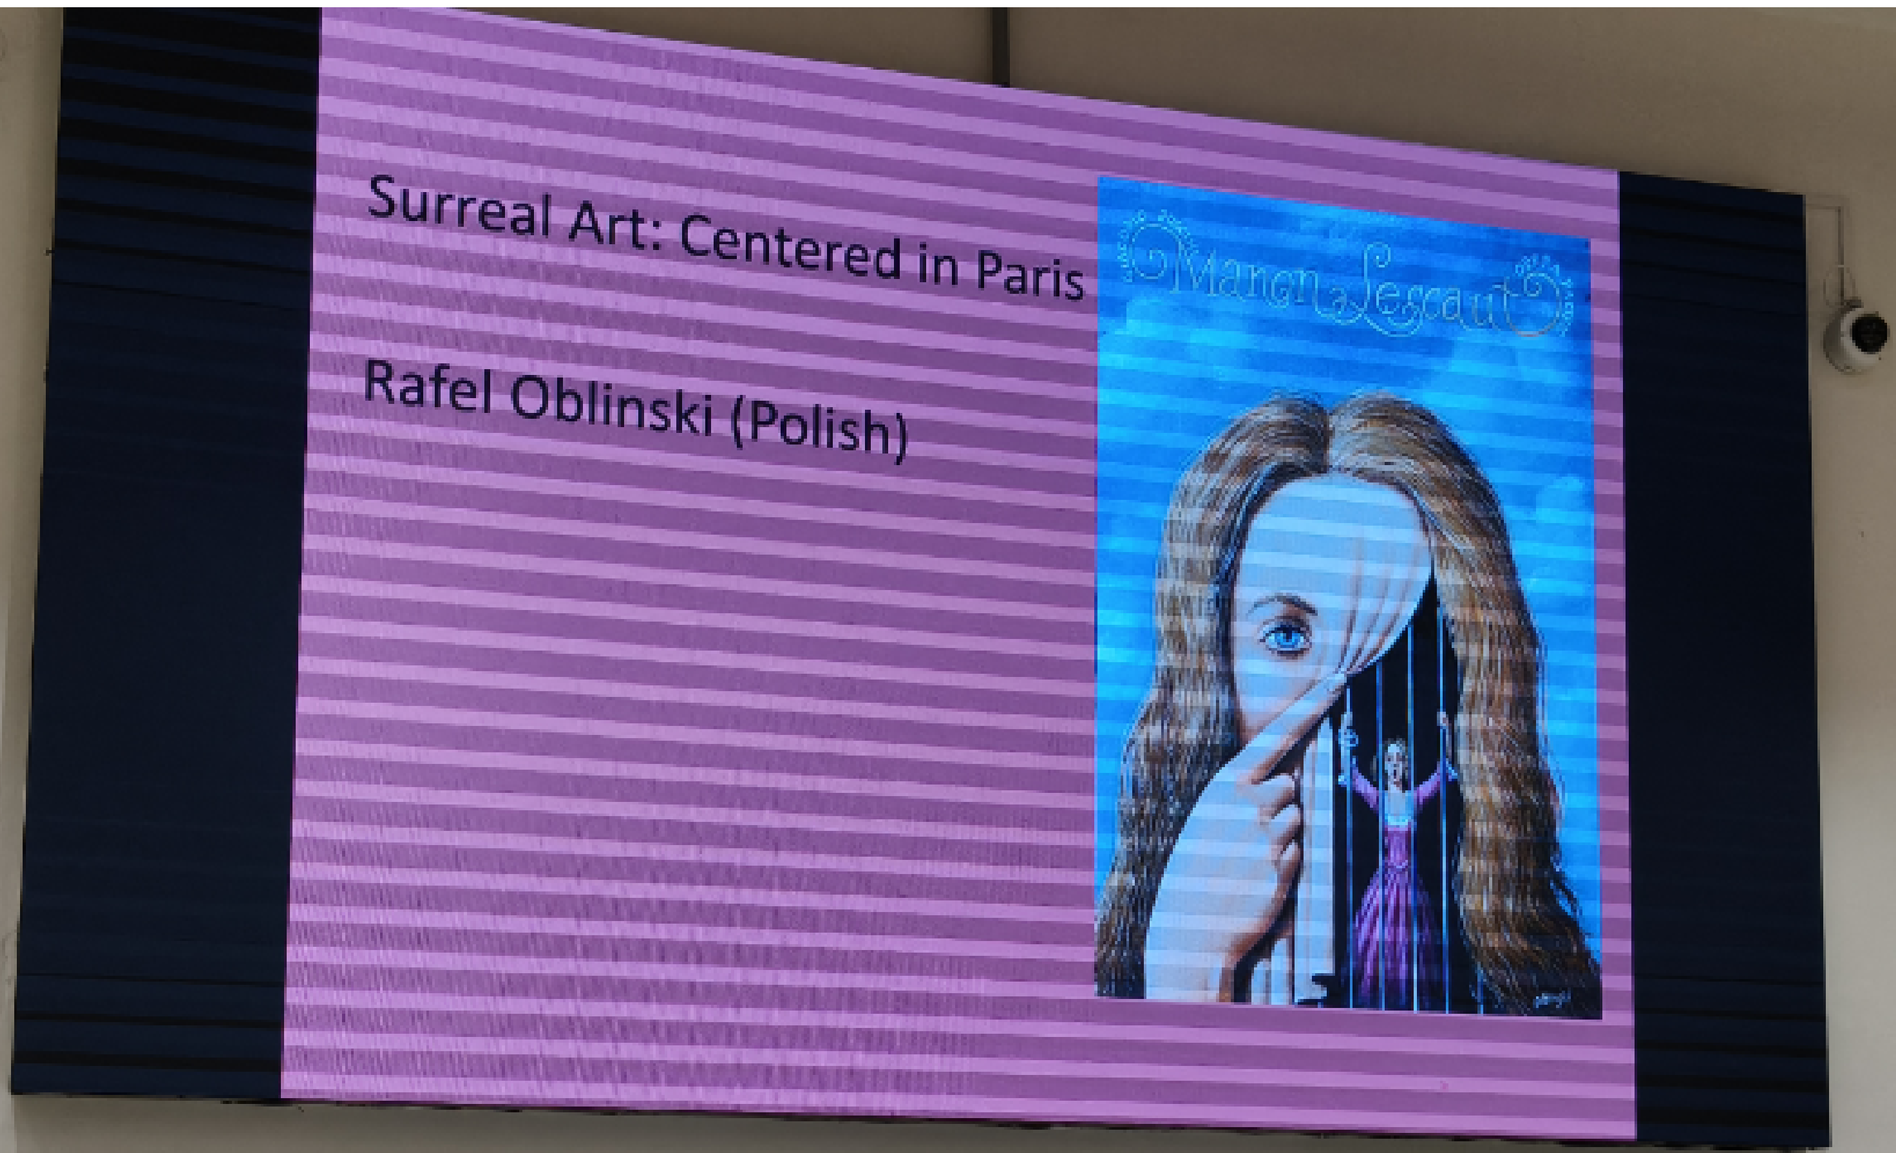
Reworking of Da Vinci's Mona Lisa

"Destruction is also creation"



Raoul Hausmann's
Mechanical Head
(or, The Spirit of Our Time)





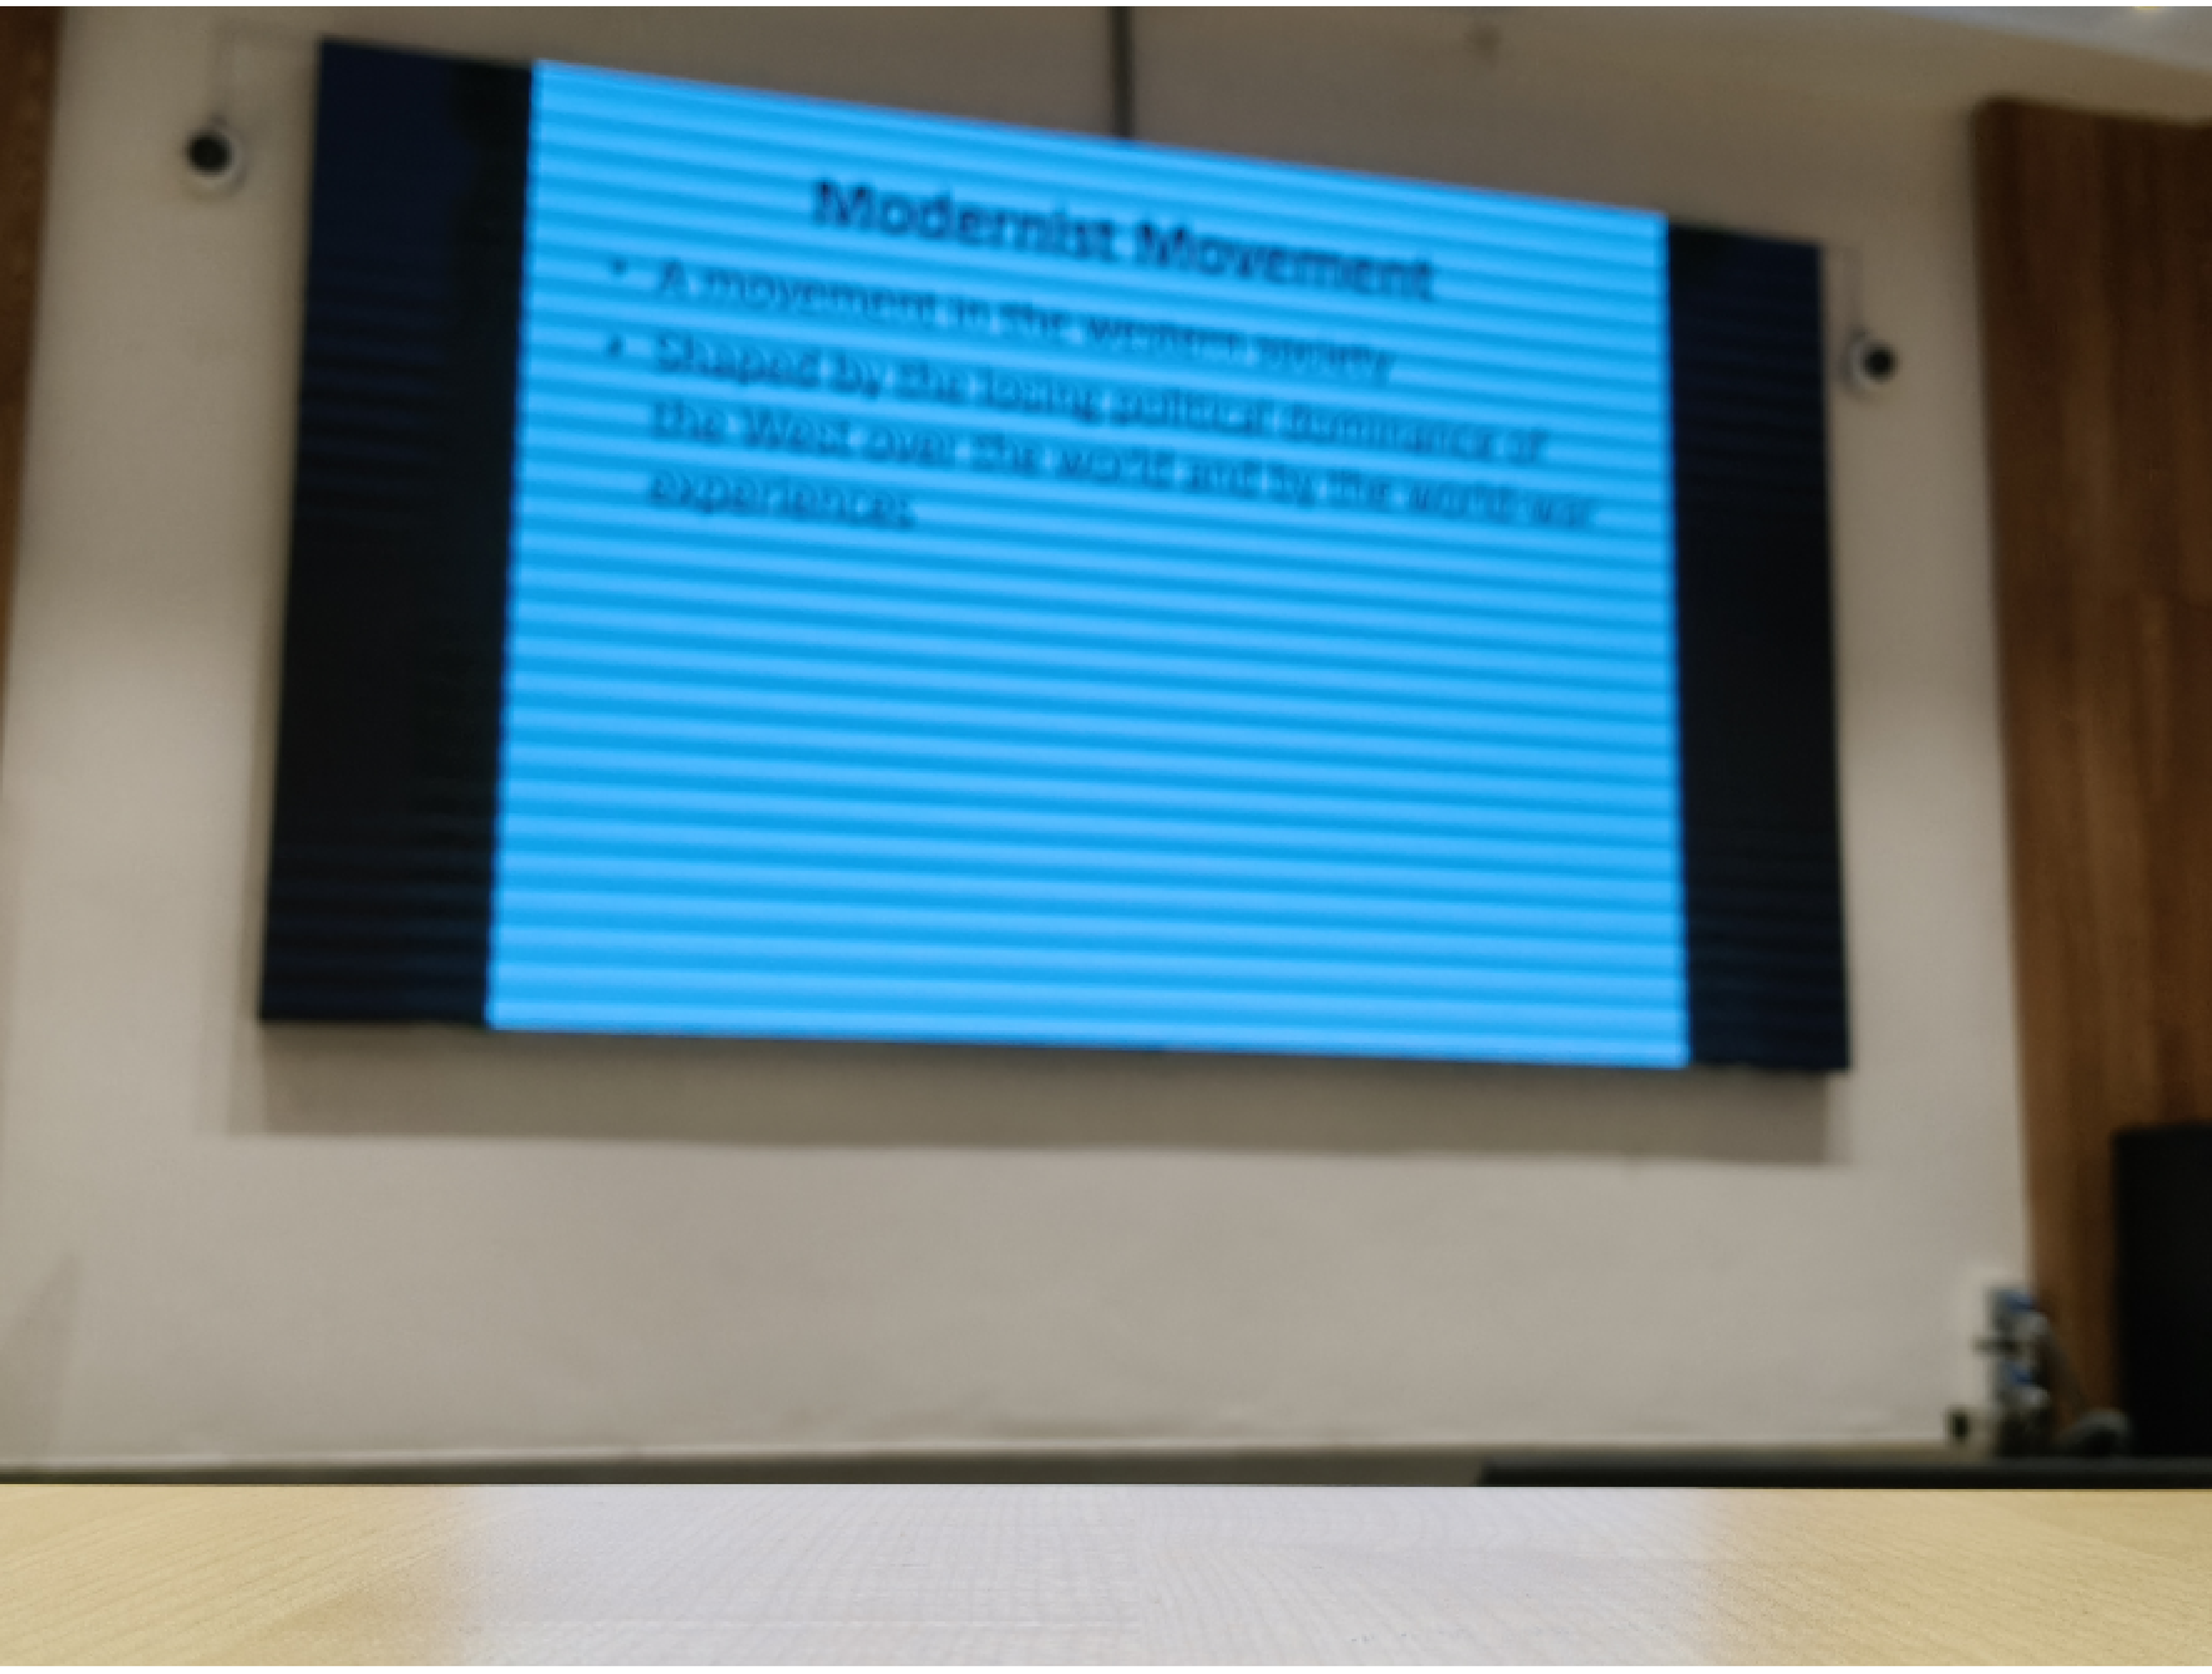
Surreal Art: Centered in Paris
Rafel Oblinski (Polish)
Marcin Lescaut

Magritte's La
Reproduction
Interdite or
The Forbidden
Reproduction

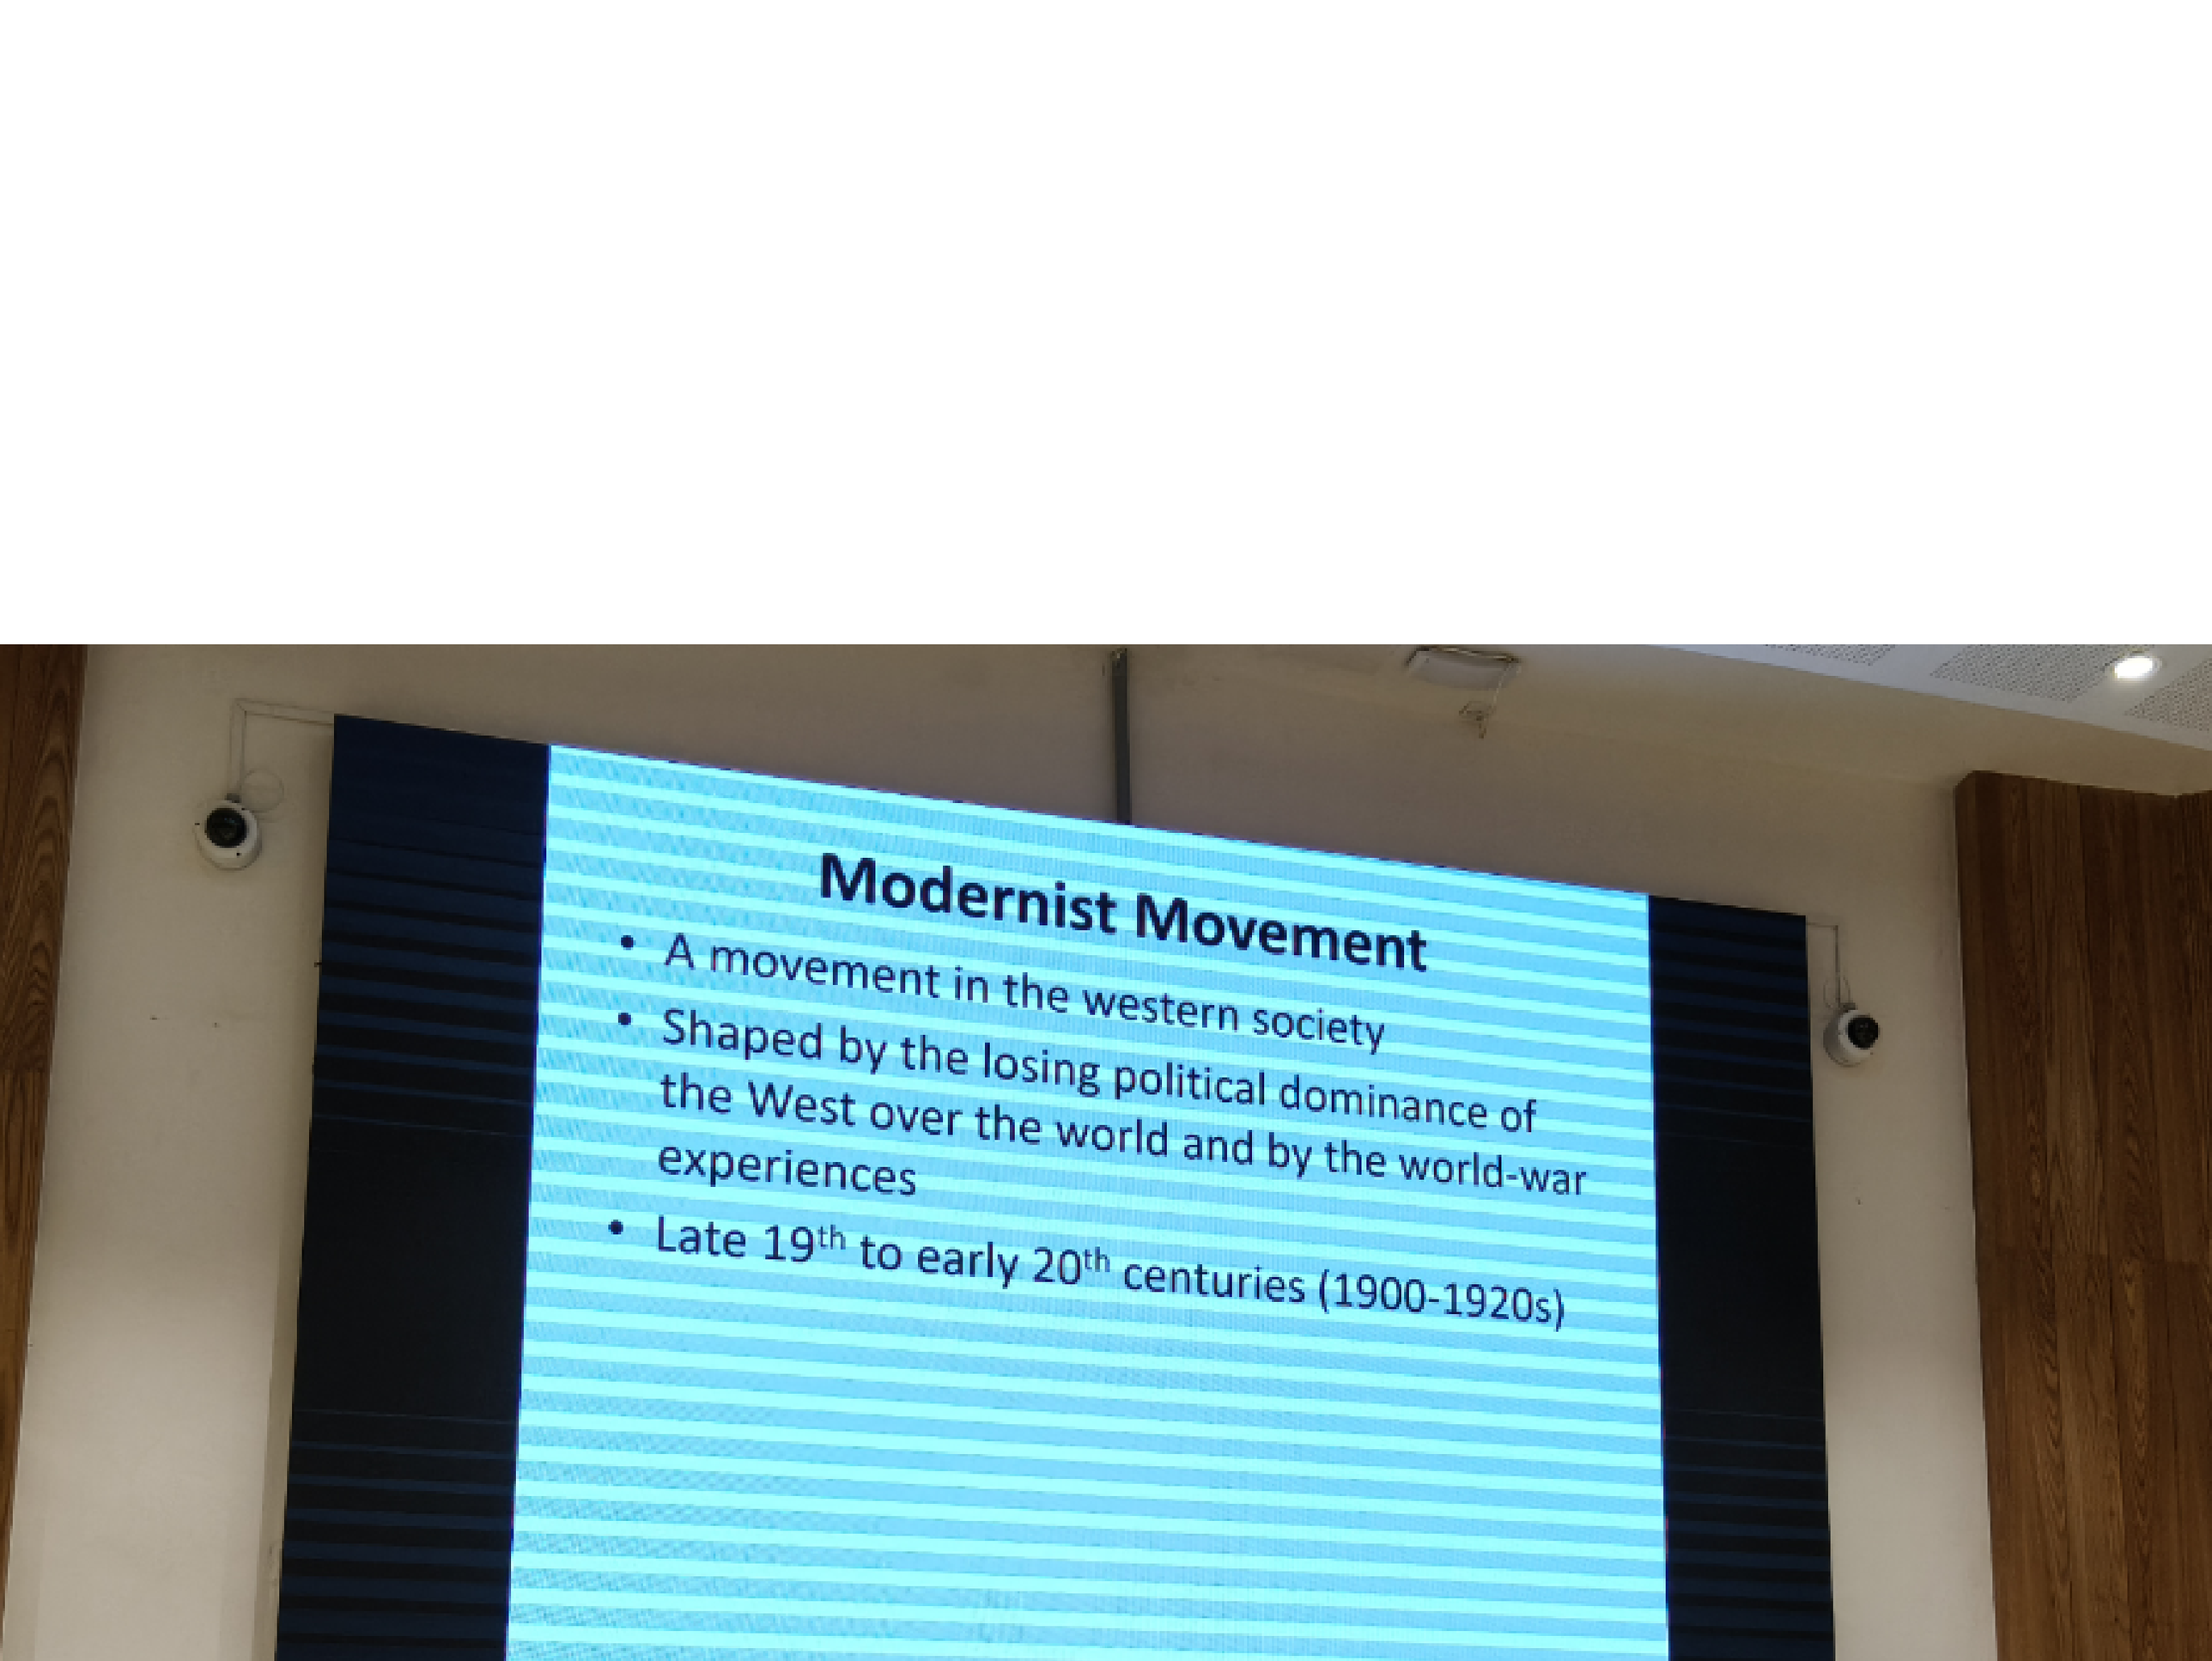
Magritte's La Reproduction Interdite or The Forbidden Reproduction

(Colonialists and the need to fashion Natives after themselves)

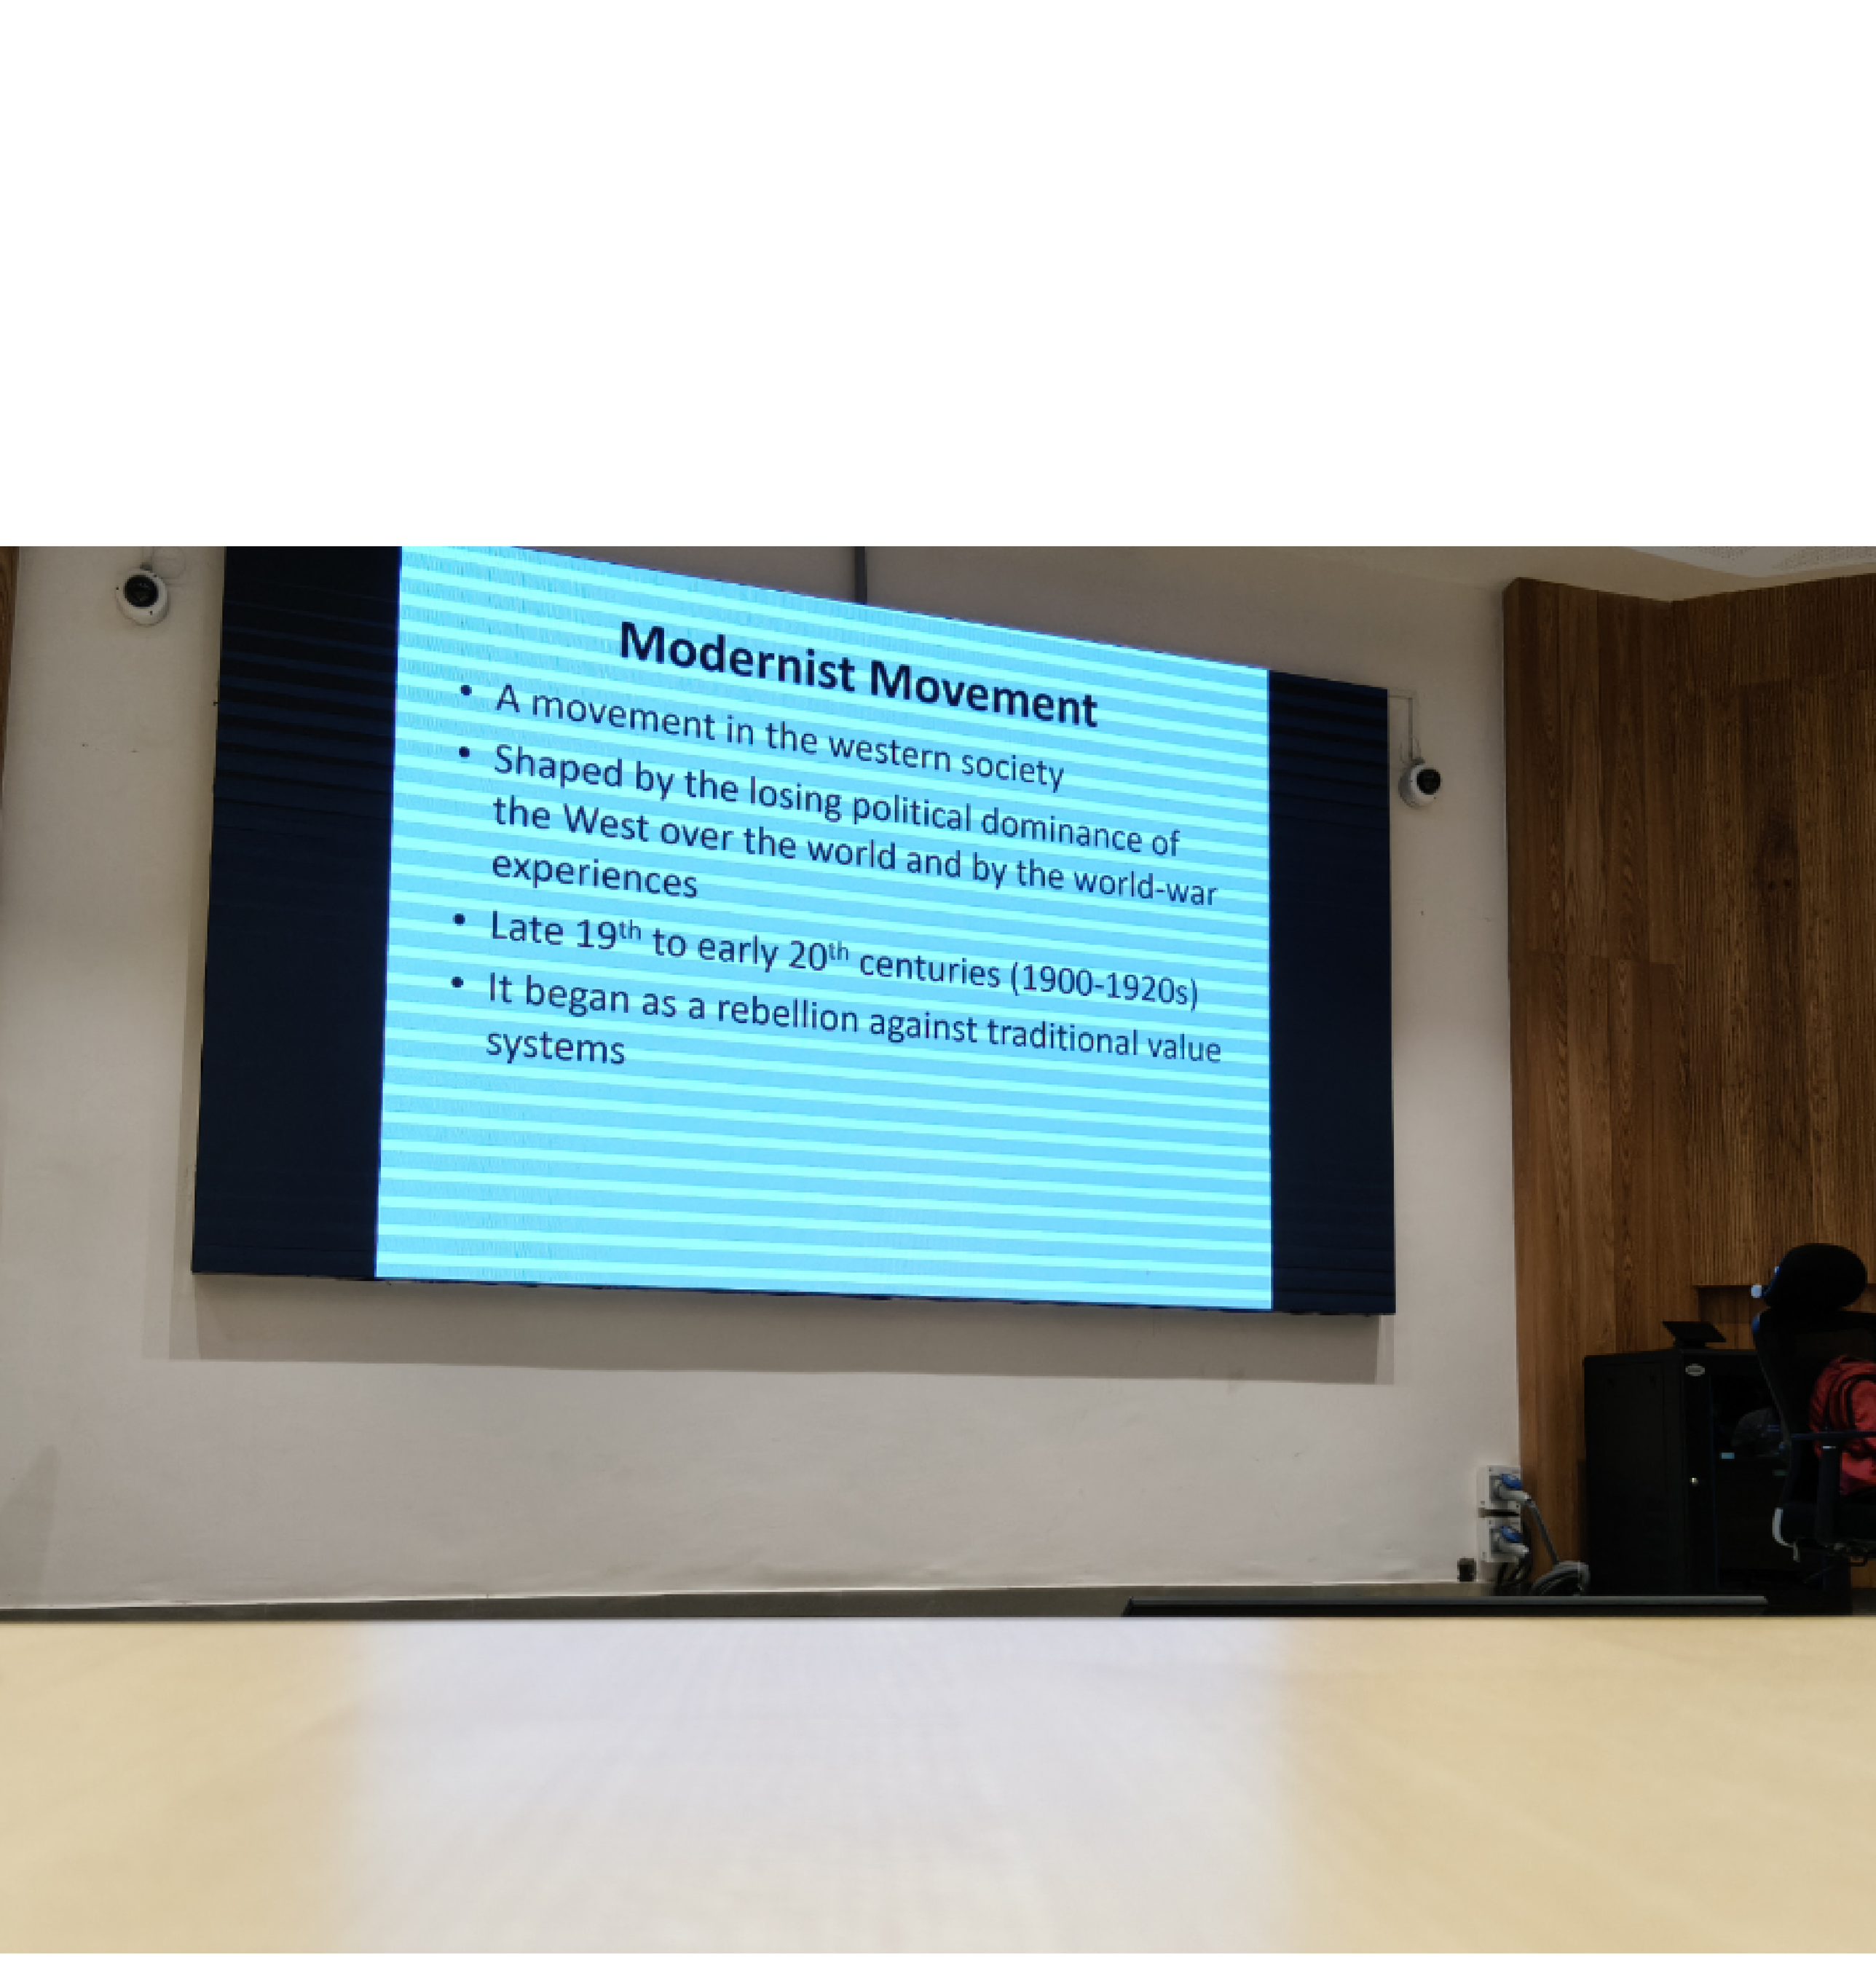
Modernist Movement
• A movement in the western society



Modernist Movement



Modernist Movement
• A movement in the western society
• Shaped by the losing political dominance of the West over the world and by the world-war experiences
• Late 19th to early 20th centuries (1900-1920s)



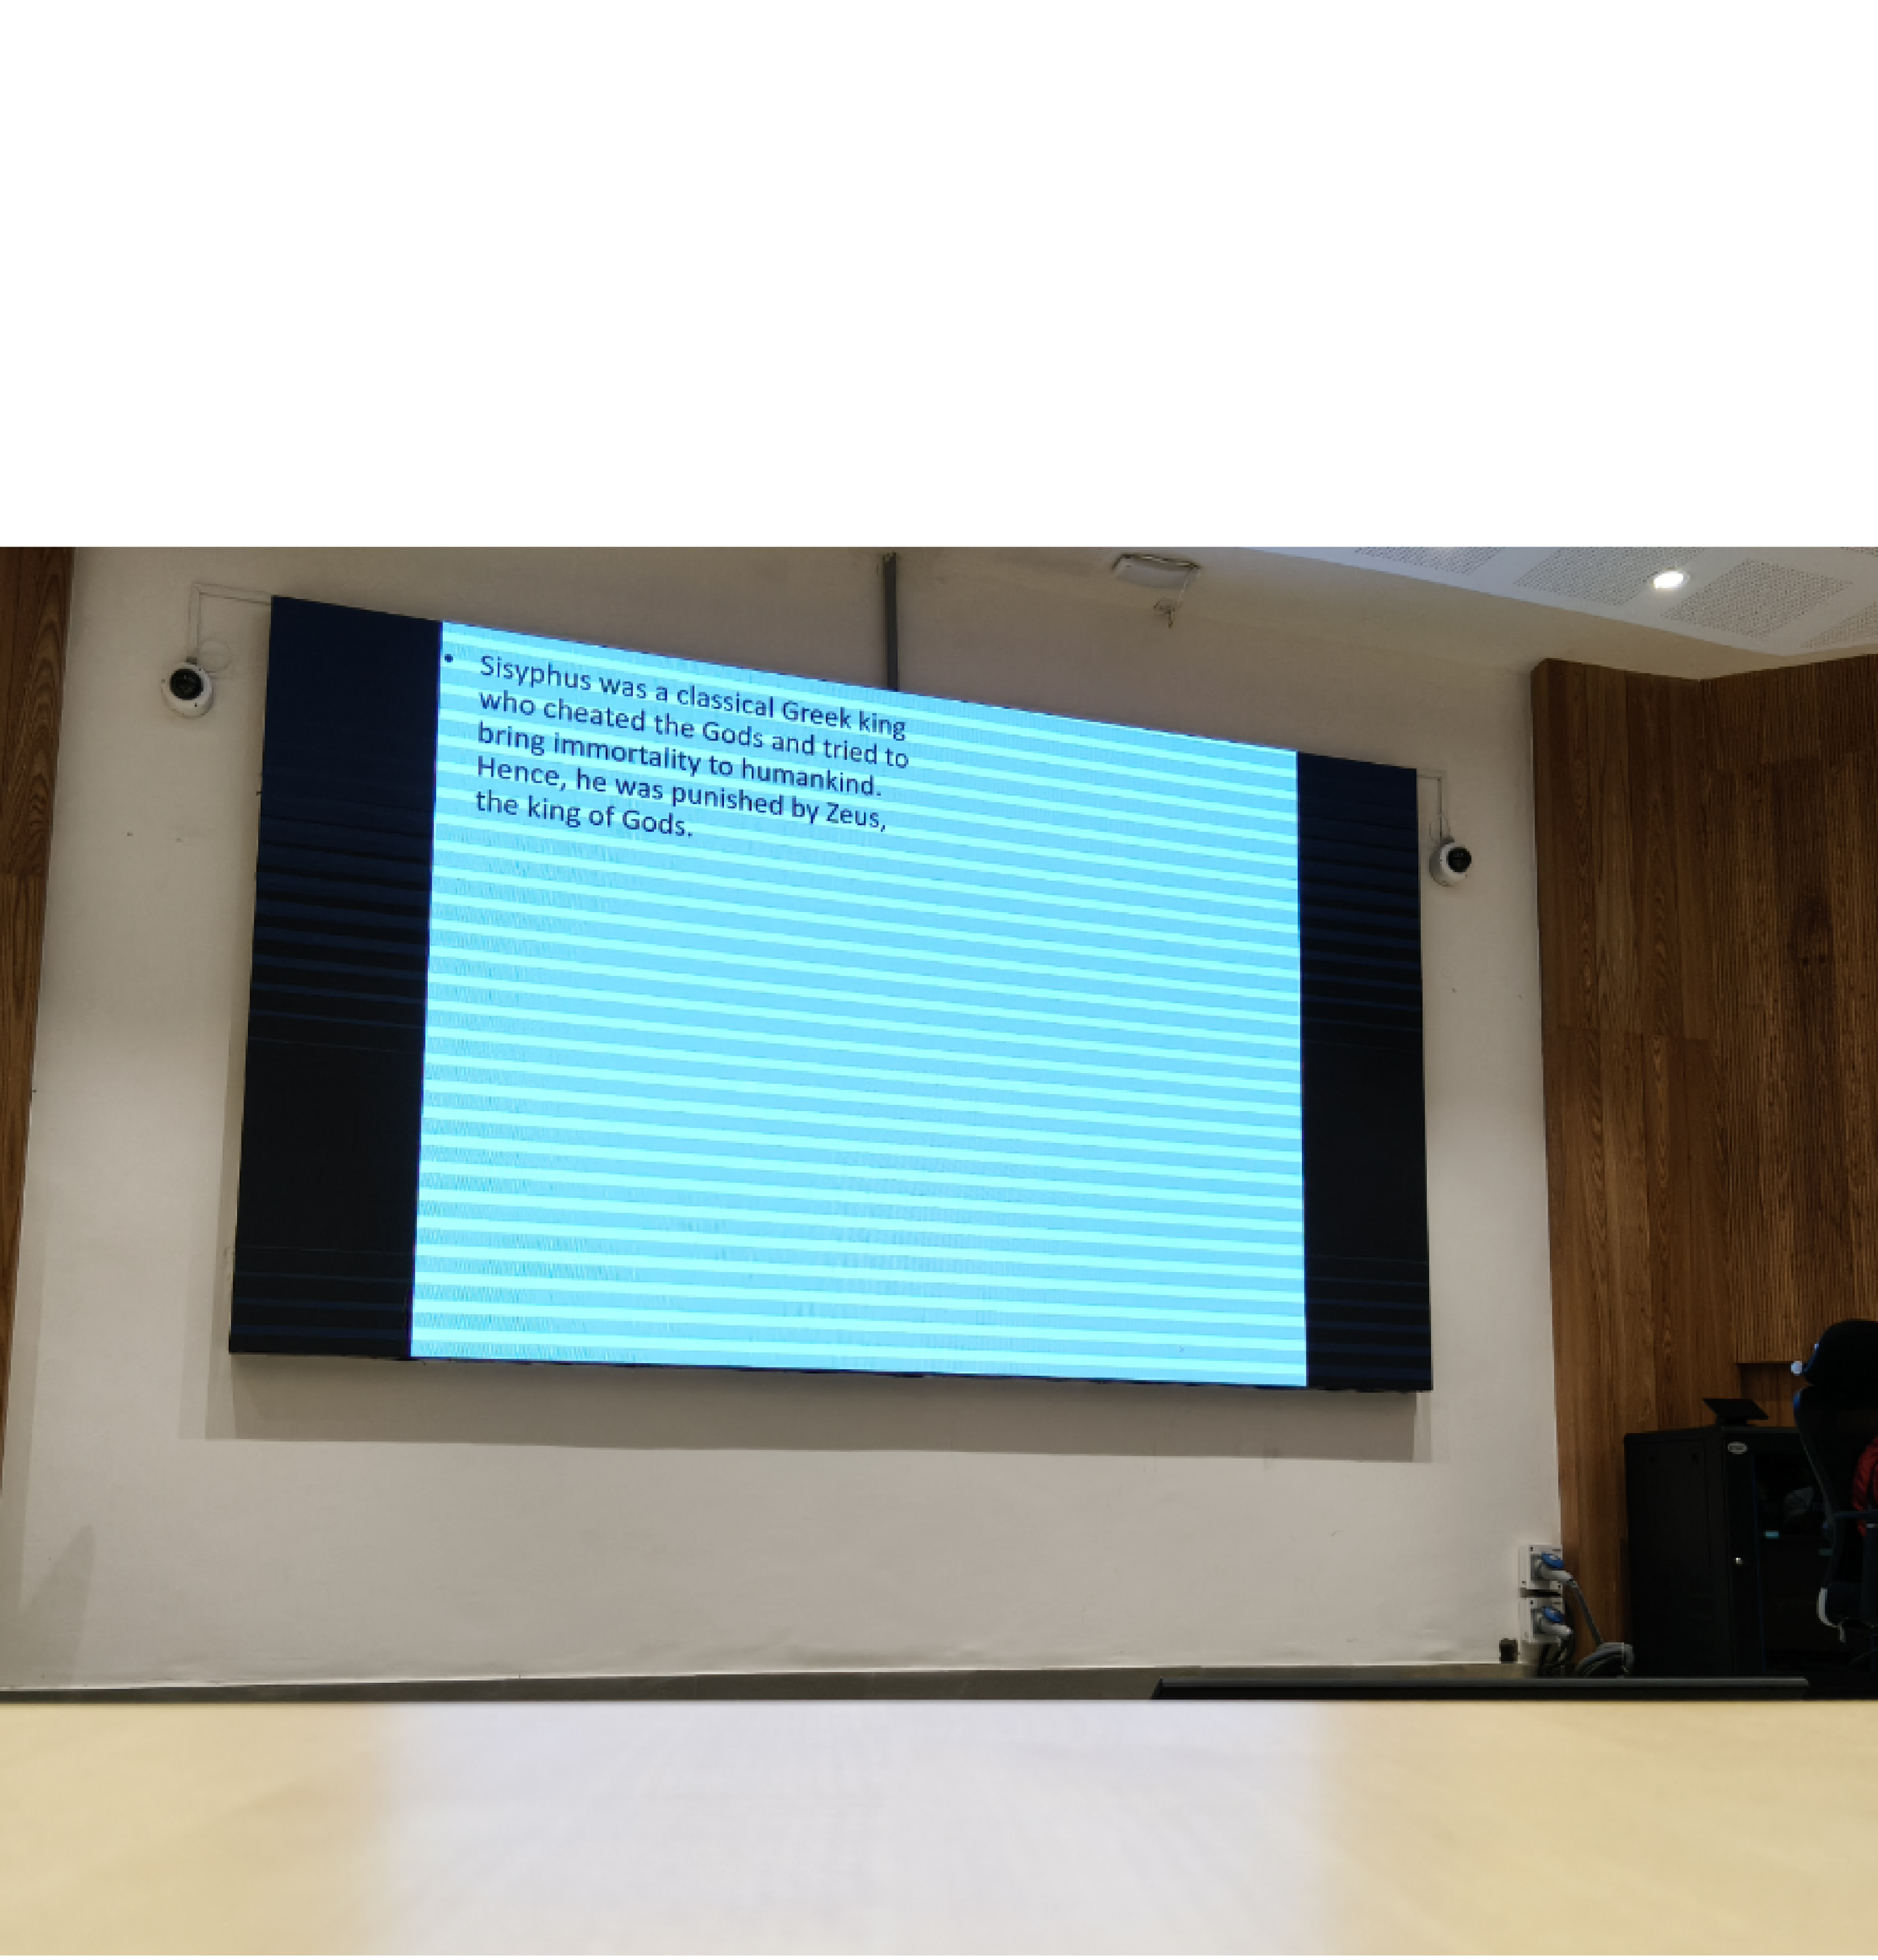
Modernist Movement
• A movement in the western society
• Shaped by the losing political dominance of the West over the world and by the world-war experiences
• Late 19th to early 20th centuries (1900-1920s)
• It began as a rebellion against traditional value systems

Modernist Movement

- A movement in the western society
- Shaped by the losing political dominance of the West over the world and by the world-war experiences
- Late 19th to early 20th centuries (1900-1920s)
- It began as a rebellion against traditional value systems
- Questioning and rejection of ideals like an all-powerful God; moral codes

Modernist Movement

- A movement in the western society
- Shaped by the losing political dominance of the West over the world and by the world-war experiences
- Late 19th to early 20th centuries (1900-1920s)
- It began as a rebellion against traditional value systems
- Questioning and rejection of ideals like an all-powerful God; moral codes
- Encouraged re-examination and introspection



• Sisyphus was a classical Greek king who cheated the Gods and tried to bring immortality to humankind. Hence, he was punished by Zeus, the king of Gods.

- Sisyphus was a classical Greek king who cheated the Gods and tried to bring immortality to humankind. Hence, he was punished by Zeus, the king of Gods.
- The Myth is a reminder of human mortality and divine immortality.

- Sisyphus was a classical Greek king who cheated the Gods and tried to bring immortality to humankind. Hence, he was punished by Zeus, the king of Gods.

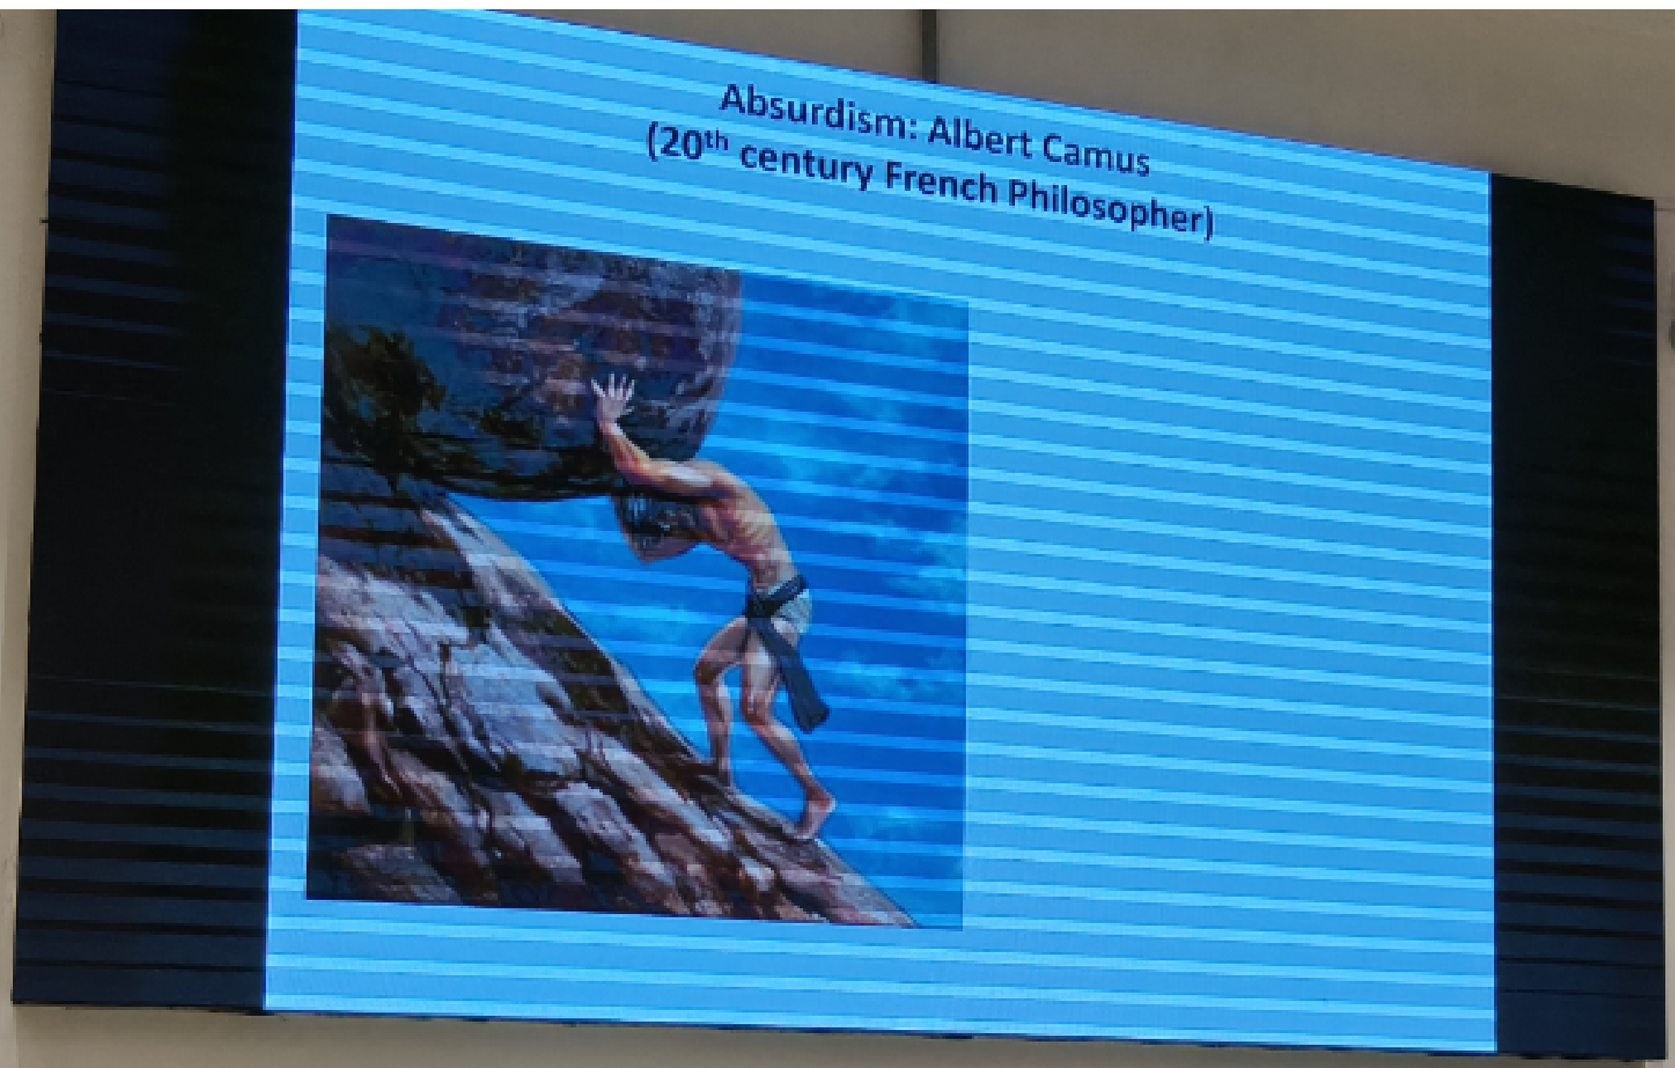
- The Myth is a reminder of human mortality and divine immortality.

- In The Myth of Sisyphus Camus explains this concept of the absurd. The absurd comes with the realization that the world is not rational: At this point of its effort humanity stands face to face with the irrational. (28).

(From the Univ of Hawaii's online course material)

- Sisyphus was a classical Greek king who cheated the Gods and tried to bring immortality to humankind. Hence, he was punished by Zeus, the king of Gods.
- The Myth is a reminder of human mortality and divine immortality.
- In The Myth of Sisyphus Camus explains this concept of the absurd. The absurd comes with the realization that the world is not rational: At this point of its effort humanity stands face to face with the irrational. (28).

(From the Univ of Hawaii's online course material)



Absurdism: Albert Camus
(20th century French Philosopher)

Absurdism: Albert Camus
(20th century French Philosopher)

- The Myth of Sisyphus (1942)
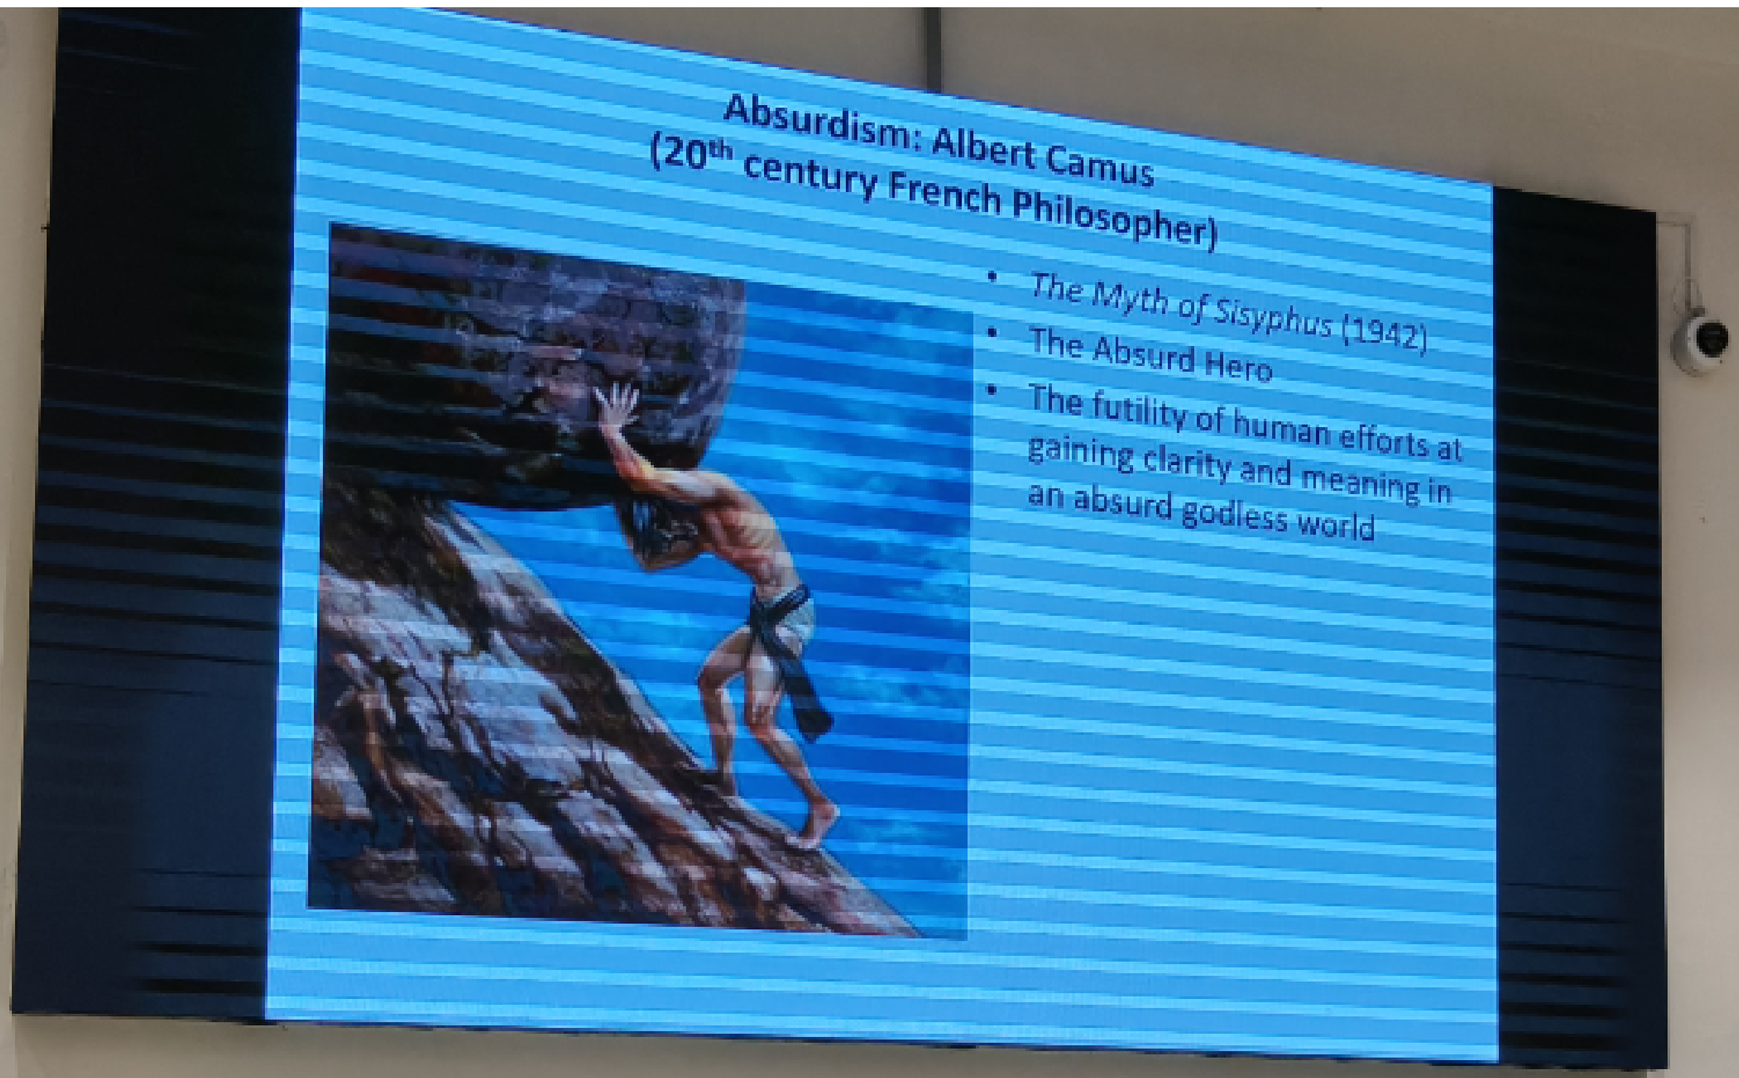
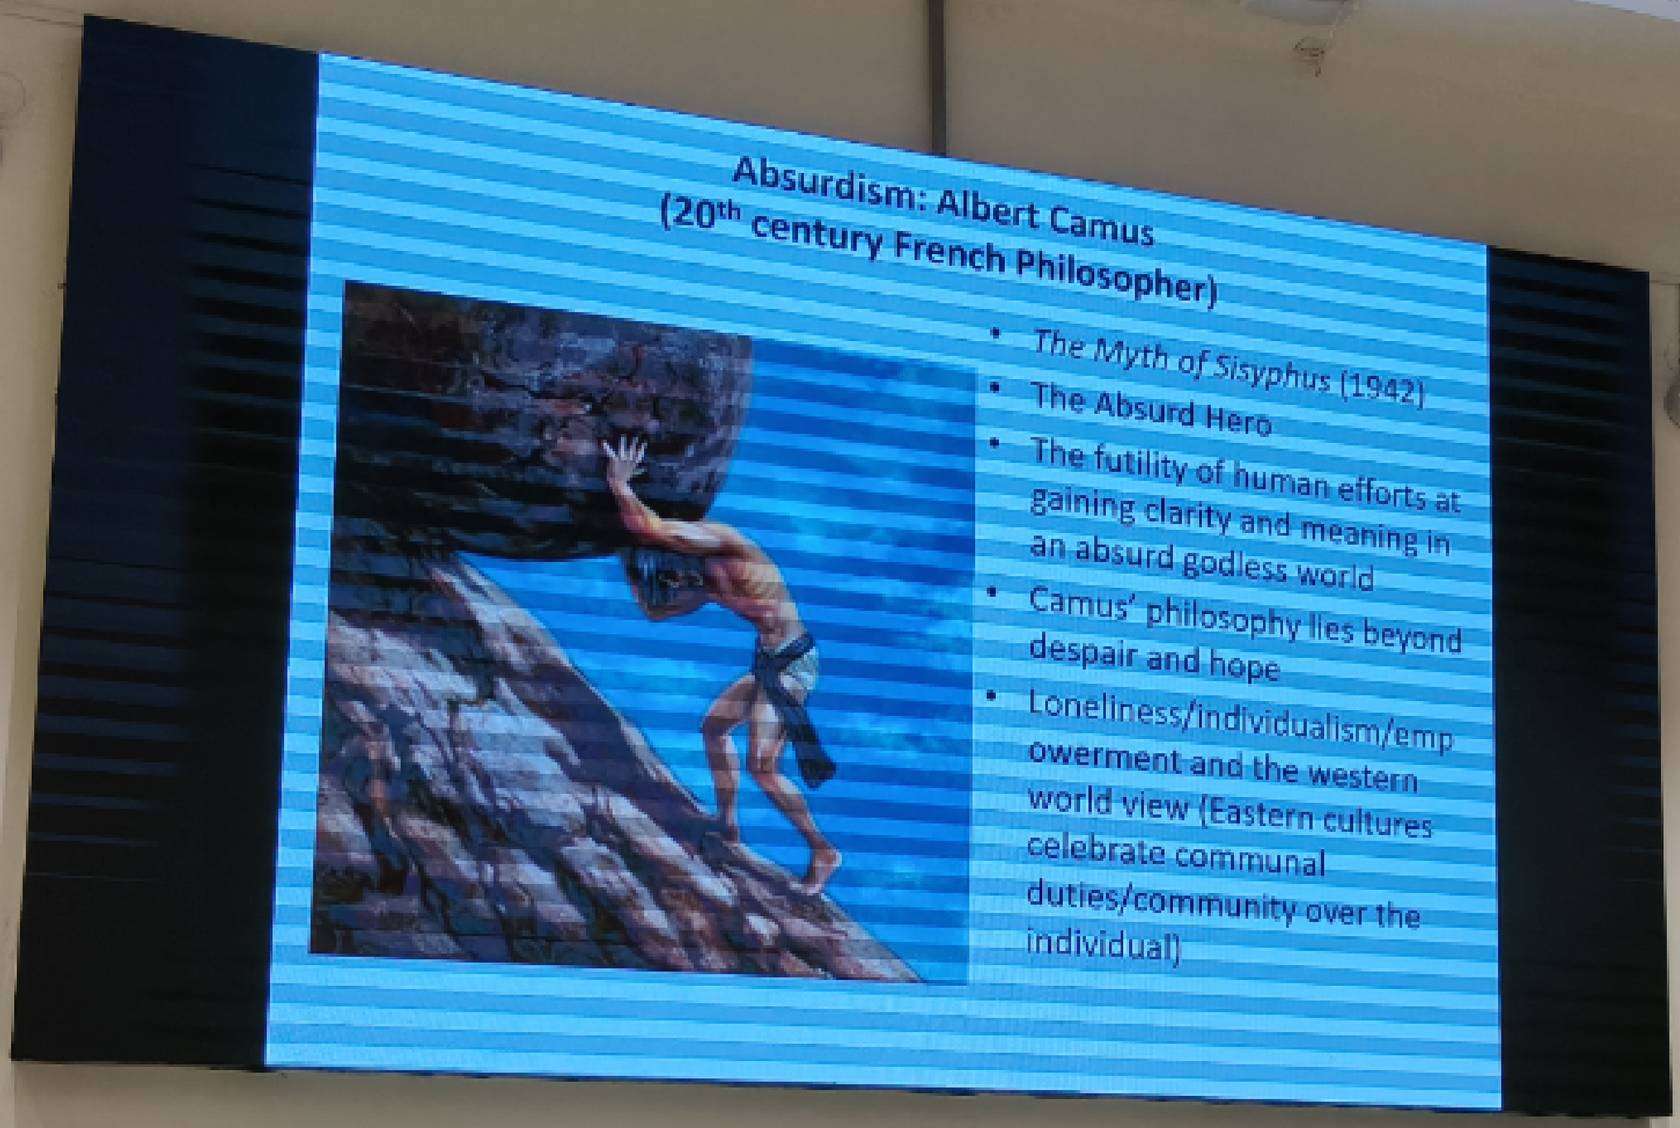
- The Absurd Hero
-



Absurdism: Albert Camus
(20th century French Philosopher)
• The Myth of Sisyphus (1942)
• The Absurd Hero
• The futility of human efforts at gaining clarity and meaning in an absurd godless world



Absurdism: Albert Camus
(20th century French Philosopher)
The Myth of Sisyphus (1942)
The Absurd Hero
The futility of human efforts at gaining clarity and meaning in an absurd godless world
Camus' philosophy lies beyond despair and hope
Loneliness/individualism/empowerment and the western world-view (Eastern cultures celebrate communal duties/community over the individual)